3 WIN NOBEL PRIZE IN PHYSICS FOR WORK ON ELECTRONS IN ATOMS

This year's Nobel Prize in physics went to three scientists for studying how electrons zip around the atom during the tiniest of split second

TINIEST OF SPLIT SECOND TO "SEE" ELECTRONS

Pierre Agostini of the Ohio State University in the US; Ferenc Krausz of the Max Planck Institute of Quantum Optics and Ludwig Maximilian University of Munich in Germany; and Anne L'Huillier of Lund University in Sweden won the award. To understand how an electron travels, they had to look at it within an extremely short time period — one quintillionth of a second

L'HUILLIER 5TH WOMAN TO GET PHYSICS NOBEL

- L'Huillier is only the fifth woman to win a Nobel in physics. "For all the women, I say if you are interested, if you have a little bit of passion for this type of challenges, so just go for it," L'Huillier said in an interview

Raids across several cities in UAPA case; many journalists questioned; Delhi office sealed

UJWAL JALALI @New Delhi

IN simultaneous pre-dawn raids across various cities, the Delhi Police Special Cell on Tuesday swooped down at multiple locations linked to news website NewsClick, and questioned senior journalists for hours in a case under the stringent Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA).

After more than 12 hours, around 8.30 pm, Prabir Purkayastha, the founder of the website, and Amit Chakravarty, its HR head, were arrested under the UAPA. A total of 37 suspects, including nine women, were questioned.

The raids began at 5 am at more than 35 locations in Delhi and its adjoining areas. Sleuths picked up several journalists from their residences in Delhi-NCR and brought them to the Special Cell office located at Lodhi Colony.

Other journalists questioned included Abhisar Sharma, Aunindyo Chakraborty, Bhasha Singh, Urmilesh, satirist Sanjay Rajoura, cartoonist Irfan, and historian Sohail Hashmi. The residences of the staffers as well as contributors and former employees of the portal were also raided.

The police also sealed the office of the news portal in south Delhi and seized electronic gadgets such as mobile phones and laptops of the journalists, and sent them for forensic analysis.

On August 5, The New York Times published a report titled 'A Global Web of Chinese Propaganda Leads to a US Tech Mogul', which claimed that NewsClick was part of a network that received funding from American billionaire Neville Roy Singham, who allegedly works closely with the Chinese government. NewsClick rubbished the allegations, saying they were "unfounded and without basis in fact or law".

I&B minister Anurag Thakur said: "If anyone has committed anything wrong, search agencies are free to carry out investigations against them."

SOCIO-ECONOMIC SURVEY

PANEL MAY SUBMIT K'TAKA CASTE CENSUS REPORT BY NOV-END

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka State Permanent Backward Classes Commission is expected to submit its socio-economic, education survey report (caste census) to the State Government by November-end.

The report by Kantharaju Commission was prepared when Siddaramaiah was CM between 2013 and 2018. It was submitted to the coalition government headed by HD Kumaraswamy. But the report was not accepted for some technical reasons.

According to Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, the report was ready in 2018 when Kumaraswamy was CM, but was not released.

Commission Chairman K Jayaprakash Hegde told The New Indian Express that it is based on the report of the Kantharaju Commission, which had conducted an extensive survey across the State. He said the Commission under him could not conduct another survey. On the delay in submitting the report, Hegde said Covid19 was among the reasons for it. His term will end next month and it is the responsibility of the Commission to submit the report before that, he added.

The report has details of every family in Karnataka such as educational qualification of each member, employment, and economic status. Based on the recommendations of the report, the government can plan welfare schemes, he said.

Sometime ago, Siddaramaiah stated that he was keen on implementing the report.

Official sources said that there is pressure on the State Government to release it with Bihar releasing its caste census report on Monday. Hegde was appointed as Chairman of the Commission by the previous BJP government. "Hence, Siddaramaiah might not consider all the recommendations made by the Hegde Commission," the sources added.

ALL CASTES SHOULD GET ORGANISED: CM

Belagavi: Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Tuesday said people from all castes and classes should get organised and claim their constitutional rights. "Equality is possible only if every community grows economically, socially and politically. Everyone should get their share of power and opportunity," he added. P4

Rahul pitch on proportionate rights creates minor flutter

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THERE was some dissonance in the Congress a day after its leader Rahul Gandhi said jitni abadi utna haq (rights should be determined proportionately) in the context of the caste census outcome released by the Bihar government.

Senior Congress leader Abhishek Manu Singhvi contradicted him on Tuesday, emphasizing that those advocating for rights based on population should understand its consequences, asserting that it will lead to majoritarianism.

"Equality of opportunity is never the same as equality of outcomes. People endorsing #jitniabadiutnahaq must first completely understand its consequences. It will eventually culminate in majoritarianism," Singhvi wrote on the X platform.

But Congress general secretary Jairam Ramesh disowned it saying, it may reflect Singhvi's personal view." Singhvi then deleted his post and fell in line.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi pounced on the jitni abadi utna haq pitch while speaking at a poll rally in Jagdalpur, saying the Congress should clarify whether rights can be given in proportion to the abaadi (population).

Recall 41 diplomats by October 10, India tells Canada: Report

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

INDIA has asked Canada to recall 41 'excess' diplomats stationed in the country by October 10, British business daily Financial Times reported on Tuesday. India "threatened to revoke the diplomatic immunity of diplomats who remain after that date", it said. Canada currently has 62 personnel in India and this staff strength is sought to be reduced to 21, it added.

However, there has been no official confirmation from either side on the number of diplomats asked to leave before the deadline. The Ministry of External Affairs (MEA) has neither confirmed nor denied the report. "When India had already made it clear that they wanted to have diplomatic parity with Canada, the Canadian diplomats should have left by now," said a source.

Last month, India had asked Canada to downsize its diplomatic staff strength in the country so as to have parity with the Indian mission in Canada. "There needs to be parity in strength and rank equivalence in our mutual diplomatic presence. They are many more in numbers and we have noticed that they interfere a lot in our internal matters," MEA spokesperson Arindam Bagchi had said on September 21, the day India suspended its visa services in Canada.

Don't want to escalate matter: Trudeau

Speaking to reporters in Ottawa, Canadian Prime Minister Justin Trudeau refused to comment on the FT report but reiterated that his country was not looking to "escalate" the situation with India

The diplomatic row between the two countries erupted after Trudeau recently blamed New Delhi for the killing of a Canada-based Khalistani terrorist Hardeep Singh Nijjar, who was shot dead by gunmen on June 18 in British Columbia. India had designated him a terrorist in 2020.

Trudeau made the controversial statement in Canada's Parliament, suggesting India's role in the killing of Nijjar. This was followed up with the expulsion of an Indian diplomat.

India rejected the allegations as 'absurd' and 'motivated' and expelled a senior Canadian diplomat in a tit-for-tat move, which was followed up with stopping visa services for Canadians to visit India.

Nepal tremors rock North India

JITENDRA CHOUBEY @New Delhi

A series of six earthquakes rocked Nepal's western province, which is closer to India's eastern border, on Tuesday afternoon, sending the shockwaves to much of northern India, including the Delhi national capital region.

The epicentre was 206 km South-East of India's holy city Joshimath in Uttarakhand. The tremors were felt in Nepal's Bajhang and adjoining districts including Achham, Doti, Bajura and Baitadi.

Delhi-based National Centre for Seismology (NCS) recorded the strongest quake of 6.2 magnitude (M) at 2.51 pm. It lasted 40 seconds, which caused panic with people running out of their homes and offices.

Reports said many people were stuck in their high rises in NCR. No damage was reported in India. However, initial reports suggested Nepal suffered widespread damage to houses and at least 11 people were injured. The earthquakes also induced landslides. They impacted the Jaiprithvi municipality, Kedarsyu, Khaptadchanna and Vithardir Municipality.

According to NCS officials, the first quake of 4.6 magnitude struck western Nepal at a depth of 10 km at 2.25 pm, followed by a 6.2 jolt at 2.51 pm, 3.6 tremor at 3.06 pm, 3.1 at 3.19 pm, 4.3 at 5.04 pm, and the last earthquake of 3.9 at 5.23 pm.

Nepal had witnessed a devastating 7.8 magnitude earthquake in April 2015, which killed nearly 9,000 people.

KCR wanted to join NDA, we said no: Modi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Hyderabad

DROPPING a political bombshell, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said on Tuesday that BRS supremo and Telangana Chief Minister K Chandrasekhar Rao wanted to join the NDA after the BJP won 48 seats in the Greater Hyderabad Municipal Corporation polls in December 2020. However, Modi said he rejected the idea.

"KCR gave me a beautiful shawl and showed so much love, which is not in his character. Then he told me that the country is progressing under your leadership. We also want to be part of the NDA. I said what next? Support us in Hyderabad municipal corporation," Modi said while speaking at a public meeting in Nizamabad.

Dispelling widespread rumours of a tacit understanding between the BJP and BRS, the PM said: "Modi will never align with KCR because of his misdeeds."

The PM instead accused the Congress and BRS of being in collusion. He claimed that the BRS funded Congress' campaign in Karnataka elections using ill-gotten wealth from Telangana, and the grand old party would now return the favour in the Telugu state. P7

CONTINENTAL TRIUMPH

Breaching 70 as India on course to highest medal haul

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @Hangzhou

THE Hangzhou evening skies have been pretty dramatic to look at it over the last few days. The city of high rises with pockets of green everywhere, cools down rapidly in the evenings. By the time the locals occupy the 80,000 seater (Hangzhou Olympic Sports Centre Stadium), you look skywards if you want to reel an Insta story.

If India's medal tally was driven by the Fuyang Yinhu Shooting Ranges in the first week, the Olympic Stadium is unsurprisingly driving the push as the Games enters the business end. Now, they are on the verge of overhauling two of the medal records (gold/overall) set at Jakarta-Palembang in 2018. With five days left, they are on 69 medals (15 gold) and fourth on medals behind China, South Korea and Japan. They had 16 gold and 70 at Jakarta. With more events lined up in athletics, including Neeraj Chopra in the men's javelin as well as the Asian record-breaking men's 4x400m quartet, they are set to go past the gold medal mark on Wednesday itself.

The performances of the shooting team (22 medals and seven gold) where they finished second only behind hosts, China, set the tone early on. After an underwhelming Tokyo Olympics, this was a big test for the shooters ahead of Olympics next year. They have always been a powerhouse in track and field in Asia and that's been reflected again as they exceeded the 2018 Jakarta tally of 20. They are already on 22 (four gold). They added two more gold on Tuesday, with Annu Rani (women's javelin) and Parul Chaudhary (women's 5000m) adding to the collection.

With Tejaswin Shankar winning India's first ever silver in decathlon, the medals continued to rain unabated.

The next challenge for the contingent is to meet the three-figure mark in terms of medals won. Focus will shift to the likes of archery where a clutch of medals are expected. With the country already in several finals (either team or individual), there is potential for picking up more medals before the curtains come down. With the likes of bridge, cricket, badminton, squash, kabaddi and wrestling holding some promise for gold or multiple medals, Hangzhou will surely go down in history as the country's most successful Games yet. And of course, #isbaar100par looks more real now. More on P15

Commuters stranded as Metro test vehicle derails

Full services restored on Green Line in the afternoon

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

TUESDAY morning brought agony for thousands of Metro commuters after the northern stretch of Bengaluru Metro's Green Line did not begin operations at the usual scheduled time of 5am. One of the wheels of a new Road Cum Rail Vehicle (RRV), which was carrying out trials the previous night, derailed around 2.30am Tuesday, on one of the rail tracks between Rajajinagar and Kuvempu Road Metro stations. It forced an abrupt stop to services on the northern corridor of the Green Line, running from Nagasandra to Silk Institute.

Office-goers, students, those returning to the city after the extended weekend, were all impacted heavily. Shutters of a few Metro stations were downed, and notices pasted on them, asking the public to cooperate due to a technical issue.

"Services began at 6.30am and continued till 2pm, first from Yeshvantpur and later from Rajajinagar to Mantri Square Sampige Road," said an official release. They were again stopped to facilitate clearance of the RRV from the track, and full services on both tracks began at 3.40pm.

Kengeri-Challaghatta stretch gets clearance

The Commissioner for Metro Rail Safety has given the go-ahead to launch operations for the 1.9-km stretch between Kengeri and Challaghatta, confirm sources at BMRCL. A top official said the clearance was given on September 30, just a day after the completion of inspection on this stretch.

A S Shankar, Executive Director, Operations and Maintenance, told TNIE, "The RRV was imported for inspection and maintenance works on our extension lines. We were carrying out trials for the first time since it is a new one, and one of the wheels went off track. This happens rarely. Various attempts to put the 18-tonne vehicle back on track were attempted till 9am, but couldn't be done since the incident happened at the curve. So we decided to lift it using a 250-tonne crane and take it away by road. After it was removed, operations were restored."

On stations being closed even up to 7.30am on the Green Line, Shankar said, "We did not want crowding and commuters rushing in at once. So we temporarily shut some of the stations."

The Chief Public Relations Officer alerted the public only through his posts on X, first at 5.28am and later, earning the wrath of the public since most commuters were unaware of the service shutdown.

Among the thousands impacted were Prathap Unnikrishnan, a resident of Nagasandra, who drove his car to four Metro stations to help his son reach college. "My son, a first-year engineering student at BIT, usually takes the 7.15am Metro from Nagasandra Metro Station to National College Station. We found the station shut at Nagasandra, then went by car to Gorguntepalya which was also closed, then to Srirampura, which was also shut. We then went to Mantri Sampige Station and he boarded the train there post 7.45pm." His son (name withheld) said he reached college late and missed most of the first session.

BMTC ran additional buses from Yesvantpur and a few other Metro stations to help commuters.

Chilume case: BBMP chief under scanner

YACOOB MOHAMMED
@ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah has directed the Chief Secretary to look into the allegations made against BBMP Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath in connection with the NGO Chilume case and submit the report.

The chief minister issued the directions after Congress leader and former MLC Ramesh Babu alleged that District Election Officer Girinath committed a serious offense under the provision of section 32 of Peoples' Representation Act, by entrusting a private agency like Chilume, to undertake election related work. He also accused Girinath of dereliction of duty. Babu wrote to the CM on May 23, 2023 and the CM issued the directions to the CS on July 6, 2023.

The Chief Secretary on July 10, 2023 wrote to DPAR Secretary seeking an explanation over the complaint filed by Ramesh Babu. The Congress leader said he had earlier written to the then Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, but no action was taken. He had alleged that due to Chilume's role, Congress failed to improve its tally in the city and lost 4 to 5 winnable seats.

Babu told TNIE that he was unhappy with the Election Commission's action of suspending two IAS officers S Rangappa and K Srinivas. He said that these officers were made the scapegoats. Earlier, the Halasuru Gate Police had arrested Shivajinagar revenue officer Suhail Ahmed, Mahadevpura revenue officer K Chandrasekhar, Chickpet Deputy Revenue Officer VB Bheemashankar and RR Nagar revenue officer Mahesh who were working as voter registrars. They were later suspended by BBMP. Based on the Election Commission's direction, on November 24, 2022, Rangappa and Srinivas were placed under suspension.

As the probe continued, the police arrested Chilume staffers- Renuka Prasad, Dharmesh, Maruti Gowda, Abhishek and founder Ravikumar for alleged impersonation and tampering of data. It was also alleged that the staff of Chilume impersonated as booth level officers and that BBMP officials had helped them with the ID cards. Congress which was in opposition back then, had accused that the names of minority community and other non-BJP voters were removed from the voters list.

Tushar Girinath was not available for any comment.

REDDY: NO BAN, CARPOOLING WILL ONLY BE REGULATED

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

AFTER a wide debate in favour of and against carpooling in Bengaluru, Transport Minister R Ramalinga Reddy said a decision will be taken by the state transport department in 10 days. Reddy met representatives of app-based carpooling companies on Tuesday, along with top officials from the transport department.

Speaking to TNIE after the meeting, Reddy said, "The state government is in favour of carpooling as it helps curb traffic, reduce pollution and allows people to travel at a low cost. We have not imposed a ban on carpooling. However, the carpooling system needs regulation as non-commercial vehicles with white boards cannot be used."

In the next ten days, transport officials will explore the legal options of carpooling and take a suitable decision, he said.

PIC FOR REPRESENTATION

'FRAME REGULATIONS FOR CARPOOLING'

"The state's transport department is confused between 'car pooling' and 'ride splitting'. Carpooling is when the owner of a private white board vehicle goes to a destination of his choice and takes along a few co-passengers on the same route, who share travel expenses. The driver or owner does not make any profit but shares the cost of the ride among the travellers," Bengaluru South MP Tejasvi Surya told reporters here on Tuesday. "In ride-splitting, which private aggregators like Uber Pool and Ola Share are doing, passengers taking a certain route are picked up, and share the ride cost. It is activity for profit taken up by a for-hire driver running a yellow-board taxi," he said, adding that the government should frame regulations and not ban carpooling. Bengaluru is struggling to manage its traffic and the policy objective of the government should be to provide mobility via public transport and not vehicles, he said.

Keen on reducing hassles for public, says, Jayaram N

Bengaluru: Jayaram N, who assumed charge as the new Commissioner of the BDA on Tuesday, is keen on reducing the waiting time for public who frequent the BDA office for various reasons. Jayaram held a meeting with senior officers of different departments to take stock of the work. Speaking to TNIE about his priorities in the new role, Jayaram said, "Public keep coming to the BDA office in connection with home plan sanctions, khata registration, and transfer. The transfer of a khata can be done within a day or two, but people come for up to a week. If our officers reduce the time taken for each task, the waiting time for people will drastically come down, in turn bringing down the corruption," he added. "Creating infrastructure in the old layouts of BDA and Dr Shivaram Karanth Layout site allotments will be priority for me. Calling tenders for the Peripheral Ring Road project and speeding up the Comprehensive Development Plan for the city will also be aspects I will be paying attention to," he said.

Discontinuing audio announcements in buses: HC seeks response from govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Tuesday sought a response from the state government on the PIL over discontinuing the facility of audio announcements in buses state-run transport corporations to help visually impaired passengers track their journey and reach their destination.

Petitioner N Shreyas, a visually impaired advocate, submitted before the court that the state-run buses initially had the facility of audio announcements, but it was found that there is abrupt stoppage of audio announcement and that persons like him are facing difficulty because of it.

Also inviting the court's attention to the Supreme Court's directions issued to the concerned government authorities, and Section 41 of the Rights of Persons with Disabilities Act, to ensure that all modes of public transport are made accessible to physically challenged people.

After hearing the arguments, the division bench of Chief Justice Prasanna B Varale and Justice Krishna S Dixit noted that the notice was issued on August 3, 2022, to the respondents BMTC, KSRTC, Transport Department, and the Women and Child Development Department and same was accepted by them. They had sought two weeks to file the objections. But we are sorry to state that no reply or statement has been filed by them till date. There is no dispute that the petition raises an important issue, and needs to be responded to, as a social responsibility, the Bench added.

Congestion charge could be a reality soon

AKNISREE KARTHIK
@ Bengaluru

MOBILITY experts have come up with the idea of imposing a 'congestion charge' on vehicles as an ideal solution to address Bengaluru's perennial issue of traffic jams and slow vehicular movement. The charges levied should be used to provide and improve existing public transport, they add.

Bengaluru's traffic snarls have caught international attention, especially last week's gridlock for an hour and a half on Outer Ring Road (ORR), which also gave sufficient comedy content to noted standup comedian Trevor Noah.

Prof Ashish Verma, convener of Sustainable Transportation Lab at the Indian Institute of Science (IISc) said: "The traffic gridlock on ORR last week reflects a mix of issues – a wide gap between travel demand, available infrastructure and service supply, non-uniform road geometry, unscientific traffic management and predominance of car and two-wheeler users."

Verma had submitted the report 'Agile & Sustainable Mobility for All' under the 'mobility vertical' of the 'Brand Bengaluru' campaign, recommending 'congestion pricing' on road users travelling during congested hours or to congested areas.

"Discouraging the use of personal vehicles and parallelly improving infrastructure and services has to be done as an integrated strategy to achieve sustainable mobility solutions. Congestion charge is an important strategy to discourage the use of personal vehicles," Verma said. He added that this amount should be pumped back to improve infrastructure and services for sustainable modes. The charges should be implemented simultaneously, while improving public transport and walking and cycling infrastructure.

Urban mobility expert Shreya Gadepalli says this is win-win for all. "Those willing to pay get a traffic-free road to reach their destinations. Traffic-free roads also make way for swift bus services, giving those unwilling or unable to pay, a reliable alternative," she said.

"In London, the number of cars entering the congestion pricing zone dropped by 33 per cent and bus ridership went up by 38 per cent. Singapore managed to keep the average traffic speed on urban roads at 20-30 kmph," she said, adding that it is high time Indian metros -- Mumbai, Delhi, Bengaluru, Chennai and Hyderabad -- implement congestion pricing.

Former bureaucrat K Jairaj said that given the traffic problems in Bengaluru, levying congestion charges might be inevitable.

Bengaluru South MP Tejasvi Surya said it's a method the government has thought up to fund its guarantee schemes, and a public discussion should be held before taking any decision.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

04th October: Here's a reminder of one of my favourite cosmic thoughts. When I look at the Sun, I see how every atom in our bodies has passed through three stars, not only our Sun but also two previous stars. We are all a little piece of stardust! And as I think about that amazing fact, the more magical the world becomes.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
You'll have to think on your feet. Most of you have as yet not been faced with a major decision concerning a range of personal matters, but all the indications are that you will be very soon. If I were you, I'd start talking to the people who matter most!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
If other people are trying to rush you, then the stars say that you can take it as slowly as you like! You may need to do a little more spadework before springing into action. Perhaps you are still a little unclear as to where somebody close stands on one particular subject, and you could remain uncertain until next week.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
As the Sun and Mars separate from one close relationship, and get ready for another, personal matters should become rather less fiery. You may now have to accept that an employer or authority figure could not have been prevented from doing what they did.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
No matter how hard you try to unravel complex emotional or practical issues, the answers do not seem to be any closer. It's probably best to be charitable and maintain an ethical outlook. It's natural for you to put others first, so you shouldn't encounter any further problems.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
You would be wise to wait another few months before claiming victory. You will remain ahead in the race, but there are as yet undreamt-of hurdles to jump, so always remain alert to unexpected developments. It's all a matter of welcoming surprises rather than being put off by them.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
You may not be able to dodge the role of martyr, but at least you can avoid being exploited by people who quite honestly don't need your help. It's all a question of knowing when to say 'no'. I'm sure that others will eventually come to respect your decisions.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
A clash of wills or personalities seems likely between now and this time next week. If you're tired of other people being too hysterical, try and relax. In future they'll be too pedantic and fussy instead! But, then, perhaps you need to choose different friends!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Finances are a contentious issue, but it seems to be joint connections which hold the greatest problems. My advice is to continue to avoid risks and look unkindly on promises of instant riches. If you go for short-term gains, you might be caught out.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Lively conditions continue, and you may enjoy getting out and about and leaving your usual environment behind. If you are tied to the home base or desk, pick up the phone, write letters and generally make contact. Someone, somewhere, may be waiting to hear from you!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Money is an emotional thing, and could be the cause of a difference of opinion, but that's probably not entirely unexpected! Domestics spending seems to be high on the agenda and you may be best advised to stick to non-controversial items.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
It's all a matter of trust. If partners honestly believe that you will not stick to your word, they are deeply mistaken. You should not shift one millimetre from your principles, no matter what bribes, blandishments or benefits are to be placed in your path.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Your planetary patterns signify that emotionally and professionally you are still in a strong position. However, you must not be tempted into the belief that appearances, whether yours or anyone else's, are a reliable indication of the inner reality.

Kin held for stealing jewels worth ₹2.5 cr from scrap dealer

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE police have claimed to have solved a theft case where Rs 2.5 crore worth gold jewellery and cash were stolen from a scrap dealer's house at Tilaknagar with the arrest of one of his relatives.

The accused has been identified as Rafique, 35, a resident of Byrasandra. He owns a condiments shop there. He had stolen about 2.5 kg of gold jewelry and Rs 10 lakh in cash from the house of his relative and scrap dealer Shanawaz on 2nd Cross, 2nd Main Road, SRK Garden. The police have recovered valuables worth Rs 1.5 crore.

Shanawaz along with his family members went to their relative's wedding in Mandya on September 23 when the theft took place. The family returned home on September 25 to see cash and jewels missing. Shanawaz had purchased gold jewelry and kept cash at home for his daughter's wedding.

Rafique is said to have been planning for the past three months to steal them. He managed to get the duplicate door keys done without the knowledge of Shanawaz and his family members. When Shanawaz and his family members went to Mandya for wedding, Rafique took away the valuables and cash using the duplicate keys, the police said. The accused is said to have taken loans through apps and he wanted to clear them. Hence, he committed the theft.

Shanawaz told TNIE that Rafique did not show any sign of nervousness after the theft. "He came home early in the morning and was with us for two days. Even when the police visited our home, he was there. But the police knew that it was an insider's job. Rafique's involvement came to light when the police checked the CCTV footage in the vicinity."

The police said Rafique surfed the Net to gain knowledge about committing theft using duplicate keys.

The Tilaknagar police have registered a case.

DOG BITE CASES UP BY 5,626 OVER LAST YEAR

Vets say increase in incidents due to provocation and aggression

MOHAMMED YACOOB
@Bengaluru

DOG bite cases in BBMP limits have increased by 5,526 cases, compared to last year. According to the BBMP, 23,236 dog bite cases were reported in the year 2022-2023, while 17,610 dog bite cases were reported in 2021-2022.

The reasons for the increase in the number of dog bite cases are provocation and aggression — territorial, maternal, sexual and food — said veterinarians from BBMP's Animal Husbandry wing.

"People are not aware of these factors and end up getting bitten. For example, a stranger who enters a colony or housing quarters which has a few stray dogs, will be barked at. On catching sight of him, they may sometimes even bite, if the person tries to shoo them away. Similarly, females are aggressive when they have littered. Those going near the puppies may be attacked. BBMP is creating awareness among children and the public on all these factors," said a senior official from the animal husbandry wing.

He added that many stakeholders were involved in the stray dog census conducted in July. An area-wise plan is now being prepared to intensify the awareness drive among the public.

"Many residents ask BBMP officials to relocate stray dogs in case of dog bites, but are not aware about the law that stray dogs cannot be relocated. Citizens will be educated about the rules and reasons behind dog bites, to ensure co-existence," the official said.

Parents are also being told about the importance of checking on scar and bite marks on their children, and are advised not to ignore them. They must get them examined, and if confirmed to be dog bite, anti-rabies vaccination should be immediately administered to prevent rabies infection.

Police Commissioner B Dayanada inspects ornaments and electronic items recovered by Tilak Nagar and Sanjay Nagar police, on Tuesday | SHASHIDHAR BYRAPPA

CITY POLICE TO GO PAPERLESS SOON

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE city police will soon go paperless completely by migrating to e-office software.

City Police Commissioner B Dayananda told reporters on Tuesday that in the first step, the Police Commissioner's office has done away with physical paperwork and switched to e-office. "We are using technology in traffic management and crime detection. Now, we are bringing technology into administrative work. This will speed up the work, enhance efficiency and productivity of the staff besides clearing clutter in the office," Dayananda said, adding that the system will bring transparency besides helping maintain confidentiality.

He said the system will be introduced at the offices of DCPs and ACPs, and will be introduced at police stations gradually. "Already, it has been implemented in police stations of South-East Division. We will extend it to other divisions as well and are hoping to go completely paperless in a month," he said, adding that the new system will help in utilising available manpower efficiently, beating the staff crunch problem.

"We will take up a separate initiative to digitise old files," Dayananda said.

Sindhu and Mahendran with their kids

MAHENDRAN survived as the airbags opened. By the time he got out, the car was up in flames. He still managed to pull Pranavi out of the burning car, but she suffered severe burns by then. Sindhu and Kashavi were charred to death on the spot. A fire tender had to be called to douse the fire, the police said. Mahendran and Pranavi were rushed to hospital. But Pranavi succumbed to burns at Indira Gandhi Institute of Child Health in Jayanagar.

Mahendran is said to have told the police that he could not apply the brakes as a water bottle fell under the brake pedal. This led to the accident.

"All three died of burns. Overspeeding is the reason for the accident. The car caught fire due to the impact of the collision. The car, after crossing the median, started moving on the opposite lane and collided head-on with the lorry. Even the lorry overturned after the collision," Shiva Prakash Devaraju, DCP (South Traffic), said.

The Thalaghattapura traffic police have registered a case against Mahendran.

3 grads steal electronic goods worth ₹50L

THREE students, who had allegedly burgled an electronic goods showroom to arrange money to pay victims of two accident cases in which they were involved, have been arrested by the Sanjaynagar police.

The accused have been identified as Prabhu, Mounesh and Ajay, all residents of HSR Layout. Two of them are BCom students while the other is a BBA student.

Police said two of the accused were involved in accidents in HSR Layout and another area in the city. They had requested the victims not to file a police complaint and offered to settle the cases by bearing the medical expenses and vehicle repair charges. The main accused had loans to clear.

"The students were in need of Rs 50,000 to pay the victims, but they had no money. Hence, they hatched a plot to commit theft and broke into a second-hand electronic goods showroom on New BEL Road in Sanjaynagar on September 28. They decamped with valuables worth Rs 50 lakh," police said.

PWD Minister Satish Jarkiholi has said it will be a welcome step if the caste census report is released in Karnataka. "The report will help in knowing the status of different communities. It will help in deciding on which programmes should be taken up and how much funds to be set aside for the communities," he said

Backward Classes Commission yet to submit caste census report: CM

HDK, who led coalition govt, did not accept report during his tenure as chief minister: Siddu

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Belagavi

A day after the Bihar government released its caste census report, all eyes are now on the Karnataka caste census which was carried out by the previous Siddaramaiah government in 2015.

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, however, on Tuesday said that the Karnataka State Backward Classes Commission has not yet submitted a report on the caste census.

Speaking to reporters in Belagavi, the CM, however, did not clarify whether his government would expedite the process of making the report public, but said his government would look into the matter once the commission submits the report to the government. "I had once sought the report from the commission but it is yet to be submitted," he added.

Siddaramaiah said that the former chairman of the commission Kantharaju had drawn up the report on caste census when HD Kumaraswamy was the CM. "But Kumaraswamy did not accept the report during his tenure as the CM," Siddaramaiah said.

Siddaramaiah said he himself had ordered for the caste census and socio-economic survey when Kantharaju was the chairman of the commission.

"However, the commission's report was not prepared in its full form and by that time the coalition government headed by H D Kumaraswamy took over. Kumaraswamy did not accept the report and subsequently the term of Kantharaju as chairman also ended. Later, the BJP government named Jayaprakash Hegde as the chairman of the commission," said Siddaramaiah, adding that Hegade had not submitted the census report. "We will see once the commission submitted its report," he reiterated.

Meanwhile, Siddaramaiah has said his government has recommended to the Centre to include Kurubas in Kalaburgi, Bidar and Yadgir regions under the ST category. "The issue is with the Centre to finally decide on it," he said, adding that his government will exert pressure on the Centre for the inclusion of Gollas, Kurubas and Koli sections under the ST category.

'People of all castes, classes should get organised, claim constitutional rights'

BELAGAVI: "People of all castes and classes should get organised and claim their constitutional rights," said Chief Minister Siddaramaiah at the 9th National Convention of Shepherd India International here on Tuesday. "Socialist leader Ram Manohar Lohia said it is not wrong to hold an organised convention for deprived castes to get their constitutional rights. Disadvantaged communities are deprived of their rights and political power because they are not organised and do not develop leadership among themselves," he said. "Our community has a political history and cultural grandeur. From Hakka Bukka to Ahalyabai Holkar, our community has great personalities. But due to lack of organisation, we were not able to get due credit. Without organisation, Kaginele would not have become gurupeeth," he said. "Equality is possible only if every community grows economically, socially and politically. Everyone should get their share of power and opportunity. Ours is a caste-based and discriminatory society. There is discrimination in the distribution of opportunities. Organisation and conventions are necessary to compensate for that," he added. "The five guarantee schemes that I have formulated are not limited to one society, one religion, one caste. They are facilitating the lives of people of all castes and communities," he said. ENS

TEJASVI: PROCESSIONS ENCOURAGED BY STATE

Commenting on the Shivamogga incident, Bengaluru South MP Tejasvi Surya on Tuesday told the media: "Religious processions were carried out by a particular community with full police security in Shivamogga. The participants were wielding swords and shouting slogans against the Hindu religion. They also put up 40-ft cutouts of Aurangazeb and Tipu Sultan... DMK leader Udayanidhi Stalin had stated that Sanatana Dharma should be eradicated. Days later, in Karnataka, which is ruled by Congress, processions of this nature are encouraged by the state. There are videos where stones are thrown on Hindu's shops, public property and police. This raises serious concern at the state and national level," Surya said, and demanded that CM Siddaramaiah investigate the forces who instigated the violence.

SHIVAMOGGA district minister Madhu S Bangarappa said that 60 people who were arrested in connection with Sunday's communal riots were moved to Chitradurga jail, considering the safety factor, and 24 FIRs were filed. After visiting the riot-hit areas of Ragigudda, Shantinagar and McGann Hospital to check on the health of those admitted, Bangarappa told reporters that Ganesha festival and Eid Milad were held in a grand manner, and this incident was very unfortunate.

"To maintain law and order, Section 144 (C) of CrPC will be in place, but will be soon be lifted. The public need not panic, there is relaxation is some areas," he said.

Wishing a speedy recovery to the injured, he said one of the victims had suffered a fractured nose. "We will look into the incident, keeping aside party and religion. Those who created the problem will be punished," he asserted.

Justifying police action, he said the department took precautionary measures.

BCs in K'taka could be around 73%: Panel ex-chief

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

AFTER Bihar made the caste census report public on Monday, there is a demand to make a similar survey in Karnataka public. Former chairman, Karnataka Backward Classes Commission, CS Dwarkanath said the state could have 73% backward and downtrodden classes.

Now, the big question is whether the caste census could be a game-changer if made public. There was already an indication on Tuesday that it could be made public by November-end.

Dwarakanath, citing the Kuldeep commission report, said, "The commission has said there should be an elected member for every 2-2.5 lakh population. By that yardstick, the backward and deprived communities should have 73 per cent of the total MLAs. But that has not happened and it is not even half that number. Some communities do not have members in local bodies proportionate to their numbers. Majority communities, Lingayats and Vokkaligas, have a number of MLAs, MPs and ministers. Dalits get their 36 seats in the Assembly because of the electoral reservation. Why is the representation of backward classes so low?

Congress leader BK Hariprasad, who had asked the state government to make the caste census public, said, "The essence of democracy is to strengthen the nation by giving opportunities to the poorest and most deprived. Fruits of development should trickle down to all." He said, "There are extremely backward communities and for them studying engineering or medicine is still a dream. Should we not accommodate them more inclusively inside our system?"

Dwarakanath said the powerful majority communities Brahmins, Lingayats and Vokkaligas account for around 3, 14 and 12 per cent members in legislatures. The demand is to make the report public and to to identify these communities.

Central study team on drought to visit K'taka soon, says agri minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Kalaburagi

AGRICULTURE Minister N Chaluvarayaswamy on Tuesday said that a Central study team will visit Karnataka next week to assess the loss in the state owing to drought. The minister said that the team, consisting of three sub-teams, will visit the drought-hit areas to study the ground situation and submit a report to the Union Government.

The State Government has submitted a memorandum to the Centre urging it to declare 195 taluks in Karnataka as drought-hit and of the 195, 164 taluks were facing severe drought conditions. Standing crops on 40 lakh hectares have been badly affected and the estimated loss is pegged at Rs 22,000 crore, he said. Karnataka is likely to see crop damage up to 58 lakh tonnes, he said.

The minister said that the state government has urged the union government to increase man-days under MGNREGA from the present 100 days to 150 days apart from releasing compensation as per NDRF norms. The Centre is likely to increase the number of man-days after the visit of the Central team to Karnataka, the minister said.

PIC FOR REPRESENTATION ONLY

Chaluvarayaswamy said that the previous BJP government discontinued the Krishi Honda (agricultural pond) scheme introduced by the Congress government in 2013. "Now we have recommenced it and have kept aside Rs 200 crore to implement it," he added.

On damage to tur crop due to wilt disease, the minister said that the previous BJP government merely announced compensation but did not release funds. "But we have sanctioned Rs 223 crore and Rs 148 crore has been credited to the account of farmers till date," he added. Meanwhile, Chaluvarayaswamy has instructed the officials of the Agriculture Department to prepare a report on crop loss due to drought this year, before October 10.

Govt targeting RTI activists, says BJP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE BJP on Tuesday accused the State Government of directing the officials to prepare a list of RTI (Right to Information) activists, who are seeking information about various government programmes.

Speaking to reporters, BJP leader and former DyCM Dr CN Ashwath Narayan said to cover up its mistakes and to defeat the very purpose of the RTI Act, the State Government is targeting the RTI activists.

He accused the government of threatening RTI activists. "It is not enough if they just talk about transparency. They had earlier weakened the institution of Lokayukta and now they are weakening the RTI Act," the BJP leader alleged. He said the State Government has failed on all fronts.

Bengaluru Advocates Association President Vivek Reddy said a deputy secretary in the government has sought details about the activists who file more applications seeking information under the RTI Act.

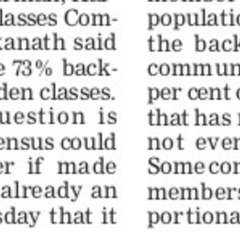
Former commissioner of Bengaluru City Police and BJP leader Bhaskar Rao said the government has lost the trust of people in a very short period.

Is Nikhil being groomed for JDS big post or polls?

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

JDS youth icon Nikhil Kumaraswamy's slip of the tongue on Sunday, saying his party will "build" (nirmana in Kannada) instead of "demolish" (nirnama) has sent social media into a frenzy.

Nikhil has been appearing before the media more often after the tie-up, giving rise to speculation that he is either being groomed for a bigger position within the party or to contest elections. But party senior leader and Nikhil's father HDKumaraswamy said, "Nikhil is not interested in any electoral contest."



Nikhil, when he made the faux pas, was talking to the media after an important meeting of the leadership with party MLAs, MLCs, district presidents and other office-bearers at Kumaraswamy's Bidadi farmhouse on Sunday.

Former MLC Ramesh Babu, who was with Janata Dal for nearly four decades before he joined Congress a couple of years ago, said, "Nikhil has lost an MP election in Mandya in 2019 and an Assembly election in Ramanagaram in 2023. In 2004, HD Deve Gowda lost the parliamentary election to Congress, Kumaraswamy lost the 1999 election to Congress in Sathnur, and his wife Anitha Kumaraswamy lost the Lok Sabha by-election to Congress in 2014. Nikhil knows the strength of Congress and that's the reason he said building instead of destroying Congress."

On Nikhil's slip of the tongue, Kumaraswamy said, "Nikhil is capable and has effective communication skills. The party will use his strengths."

Political analyst BS Murthy said, "Nikhil has stepped out from the sidelines into the virtual JDS centre stage. He was in Delhi during the meeting of the party leadership with Amit Shah and he was at BJP senior leader BS Yediyurappa's house recently. He was a prominent face at the party's meeting in Bidadi. As Gowda's and Kumaraswamy's health has not been at the very best, one wonders if he is being groomed to take over an as important leader."

No terror training base in Hubballi-Dharwad: Top cop

HUBBALLI: Following the arrest of four persons with alleged ISIS links by the Delhi police on Monday, Hubballi-Dharwad Police Commissioner Renuka Sukumar has denied reports of terror modules operating from the twin-cities. He was reacting to reports of possible spread of terror network by ISIS across the country, including Hubballi-Dharwad. However, not taking the inputs lightly, the commissioner said the local police are in touch with their Delhi counterparts and are collecting information on a regular basis. No special teams have been formed so far to look into the issue, he added. ENS

Cong brass' decision on CM tenure final: Zameer

ENS @ Arasikere (Hassan dist)

HOUSING Minister BZ Zameer Ahmed Khan on Tuesday said that the Congress high command will decide on the tenure of Karnataka CM and all state leaders should abide by its decision. Speaking to reporters after inaugurating the Maulana Azad Model Residential School here, Zameer predicted that the Congress will be in power in Karnataka for the next 15 years.

He also said the lone Congress MLA from Hassan district KM Shivalingegowda will find a place in the Cabinet in two-and-a-half years.

Zameer accused the Centre of not cooperating with the state to implement the housing schemes in a time-bound manner. Ridiculing the JDS-BJP alliance, Zameer said the Congress is the only secular party in Karnataka as the JDS has now officially joined hands with the saffron party against the wishes of HD Deve Gowda.

Lashing out at HD Kumaraswamy, he asked what is the former's contribution for the growth of minorities in the state.

Will talk to Shamanur over his doubts soon: CM

Belagavi: "We have delivered justice to all communities. (Congress MLA) Shamanur Shivashankarappa is a senior leader. I will talk to him and will clear his doubts over his allegations," said CM Siddaramaiah on Tuesday. Shamanur Shivashankarappa had alleged Lingayat officers are being ill-treated by the present government. But Siddaramaiah said that injustice has not been meted out to any community under his government. On the Shivamogga incident, he said, "Stringent action will be taken against those who spark the fire of communal violence in our government. We have taken the matter seriously. Legal action will be taken against those involved."

Withdrawal of cases against riot accused hits national security: Joshi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Hubballi/Bengaluru

UNION Minister for Parliamentary Affairs, Coal and Mines Pralhad Joshi has condemned the State Government's thinking on backing out of prosecution from several communally sensitive cases, including that connected to riots in Hubballi in April last year and cautioned that any such move of the Siddaramaiah government could be compromising with the national security to pursue its appeasement politics.

In a letter to CM Siddaramaiah, Joshi has stated that thinking of withdrawing such cases lodged in various police stations across Karnataka by his government substantiates that it would support creating social tension and law and order problems. The appeasement politics of the government has reached its peak in four months of its governance, Joshi said. Referring to the notification issued by the ADGP (Law and Order), the process of withdrawing 11 cases, including those registered in Old Hubballi police station pertaining to riots reported on April 16, 2022, was a shabby thinking of the government, he said.

"146 people were arrested but only six were out on bail. However, the case was going on in the court of law. If this was the status of the case, then how come the government could think of withdrawing the cases? This move subtly showed the appeasement of minorities," Joshi said and alleged the result of such practice is already being seen with the recent tension in Shivamogga. He alleged that the act of the government would encourage anti-national forces. Joshi appealed to the chief minister to keep away from any such misadventure.

State BJP accused DK Shivakumar of writing to the Home Department for dropping the cases against those involved in cases in Hubballi.

'FIGHTER' KCR WILL NEVER JOIN NDA, SAYS KTR

BRS working president questions PM Modi over 'family-run party' remark

'Cong leaders complained to Sonia against Revanth'

JAGTIAL: Alleging that TPCC chief A Reventh Reddy is an agent of the RSS, BRS working president and minister KT Rama Rao claimed that the several Congress leaders have complained to AICC leader Sonia Gandhi about the former. Describing the Congress as an "outdated" party that is past its expiry date, he said: "People should not believe what the Congress and its leaders say. Don't trust them even if they announce 60 guarantees. If they are voted to power, they will provide only three-hour power supply to the farm sector."

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Hyderabad

REACTING sharply to the comments made by Prime Minister Narendra Modi in Nizamabad, BRS working president KT Rama Rao said that Chief Minister K Chandrasekhar Rao is a "fighter" and will never join hands with the NDA.

"We are not slaves of Gujarat and we have no business to join hands with NDA," Rama Rao told reporters here on Tuesday.

"Modi claimed that KCR sought his permission to make me the chief minister. Why would we need Modi's permission for any decision that our party and leadership takes?" Rama Rao asked.

Rama Rao said that Modi lowered the stature of his position by speaking utter lies. "KCR is a fighter, who would never associate with Modi," he said.

"A PM-level leader displaying such blatant dishonesty is utterly disgraceful and condemnable. The Prime Minister should try his hand at storytelling and scriptwriting. He stands a good chance of winning an Oscar," the BRS leader claimed.

"Modi's inconsistency is evident. If BRS funded Congress in Karnataka, what was the Income Tax department are doing there," he wondered. Rama Rao also ridiculed Modi for stating that the BRS is a family-run party. He stated that the PM was suffering from selective amnesia.

"Former Punjab CM Prakash Singh Badal and his son and Deputy CM Sukbir Singh Badal aligned with the NDA. So did PDP's Mehbooba Mufti and her daughter Iltija Mufti. Former Andhra Pradesh CM Chandrababu Naidu and his son Nara Lokesh may find a place in the NDA. Similarly, Shiv Sena chief Uddhav Thackeray and his son Aditya Thackeray can be part of NDA. But the Prime Minister turns a blind eye to these facts and only targets the BRS," he alleged. "When the prime minister talks about family politics, one must ask about appointment of (Amit Shah's son) Jay Shah, who runs Indian cricket as BCCI secretary," he said.

Find companionship with nature, says Amma

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kollam

THOUSANDS of devotees, political representatives, and celebrities from across the globe gathered at the Amritapuri Ashram in Kollam to celebrate the 70th birthday of Mata Amritanandamayi. The festivities began at 5 am on Tuesday with a Mahaganapathi homam, followed by meditation and a world peace prayer. It was followed by Satsang by Swami Amritaswarupananda at 7 am and a captivating musical performance by Rahul Raj and his ensemble at 7.45 am.

In her birthday address, Mata Amritanandamayi emphasised the significance of love, selflessness, and unity. She also expressed concerns about the negative influences affecting today's youth and underscored the vital role of parents in imparting values. "Every calamity, whether it's a pandemic, natural disaster, or climate change, calls on humanity to cultivate three essential qualities: cooperation, companionship, and communion. We must cooperate with our fellow human beings, find companionship with nature, and seek communion with God. Failing to do so, even to a small extent, will adversely affect all our actions," Mata Amritanandamayi said.

Plea junked, MP faces disqualification

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kochi

IN a major setback to Lakshadweep MP Mohammed Faizal, the Kerala High Court on Tuesday rejected the plea to suspend his conviction in an attempt to murder case, paving the way for his disqualification from the Parliament and a ban on contesting elections.

However, the HC, which was hearing the plea afresh following a Supreme Court directive, suspended the 10-year rigorous imprisonment awarded to Faizal by the Kavaratti Sessions Court in connection with the attempt to murder on Mohammed Salih, the son-in-law of former union minister P M Sayeed, during the 2009 Lok Sabha elections.

Section 8(3) of the Representation of the Representation of People Act, 1951, says an MP, MLA, or MLC convicted of any offence and sentenced to at least two years, "shall be disqualified from the date of such conviction and shall continue to be disqualified for a further period of six years since his release."

The HC said if persons with criminal antecedents are permitted to continue as MPs and MLAs even after conviction, it would send wrong signals to the public.

Justice N Nagaresh added: "As there are materials prima facie evidencing the criminal acts on the part of the accused, I am of the firm view that this is not a fit case to suspend the order of conviction imposed on Faizal."

The sessions court had convicted Faizal on January 11. Though the LS secretariat disqualified him two days later, it reversed the decision after an HC single judge suspended his conviction.

The island administration then approached the Supreme Court, which in August set the HC order aside and directed the court to reconsider and decide on Faizal's plea afresh.

Timings of trains revised

ENS @ Bengaluru

OF the 568 trains running in the South Western Railway Zone, the timings of 314 trains stand revised from October 1, said Kusuma Hariprasad, Additional Divisional Railway Manager (Admin), Bengaluru Division.

The time table is revised every October.

"The Bengaluru Division operates 396 trains including daily, weekly, bi-weekly, tri-weekly and so on. The timings of 292 trains are revised. The daily average trains operated by the Division is 264, of which 205 are express and 59 are passengers," Kusuma said. She said that trains have been speeded up from about 5 minutes to 70 minutes.

Four pairs of new trains have been introduced — KSR Bengaluru-Dharwad-KSR Bengaluru Vande Bharat Express, Kacheguda-Yeshwantpur-Kacheguda Vande Bharat Express, Puratchi Thailavar Dr MGR Central Chennai-Mysuru-Chennai Vande Bharat Express and the SMVT Bengaluru-Jasidih-SMVT Bengaluru Superfast Express.

The frequency of one train pair has been increased and three train pairs have been extended, she said.

No interim relief for Naidu, SC to hear plea on Oct 9

JAISON WILSON @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday refused to grant interim relief to former chief minister and TDP chief N Chandrababu Naidu, who had sought quashing of an FIR registered against him in the alleged Rs 371 crore skill development scam.

A bench of justices Aniruddha Bose and Bela M Trivedi issued a notice to the state government, asking it to produce complete documents of the case that were presented before the AP High Court during the previous round of proceedings and posted the case for further hearing on October 9.

The bench also refused to entertain Naidu's plea to restrain the ACB court from examining APCID's application for his custodial interrogation. It may be noted that CID's plea for Naidu's police custody is slated to come up before the trial court on Wednesday.

In his special leave petition, the TDP chief had argued that he was arrested in an illegal manner and deprived of his liberty, motivated only by political reasons, by disregarding the fact that all actions were initiated without obtaining the sanction mandated under Section 17(A) of the Prevention of Corruption Act.

AP HC directs Lokesh to attend CID probe on Oct 10

The Andhra Pradesh High Court on Tuesday directed TDP general secretary Nara Lokesh to appear before the APCID on October 10, for questioning in connection with Amaravati Inner Ring Road irregularities case. Hearing Lokesh's plea to quash the notice served on him under Section 41 (A) of CrPC, by the APCID, summoning him for questioning in the IRR irregularities case on October 4, Justice K Srinivas Reddy directed the CID to allow an advocate to accompany Lokesh when questioning him the TDP leader.

Naidu's legal team, comprising senior advocates Harish Salve, Abhishek Manu Singhvi, and Sidharth Luthra, argued that all the allegations in the FIR pertained to the decisions, instructions or recommendations made by Naidu while being the chief minister. "This is nothing but a political case and the rigours of Section 17(A) would apply in the matter," Salve said. Luthra stated, "CID has been roping Naidu in FIR after FIR. It is a clear case of regime change." Naidu's counsel pointed out that the dates, as per the FIR, were wrong as the inquiry began on December 9, 2021, based on a letter dated September 7, 2021, to the Director General of Police.

In response, senior advocate Mukul Rohatgi, appearing for the state government, replied that the question of Section 17(A) did not arise as the provision came in July 2018, while the inquiry into the case was started in 2017. "The CBI has been looking into the case even before the present government came to power in May 2019 and that a subsequent registration of an FIR in December 2021 will not make it mandatory for the police to take prior approval before arresting Naidu," Rohatgi told the bench.

To this, the top court asked Rohatgi to adduce all the records before it on October 9, when the matter will be heard next.

Services will be faster at 1.39 lakh rural post offices

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

IN a major boost to financial inclusion for customers of 1.39 lakh rural post offices across the country, the Centre for Excellence in Postal Technology under India Post rolled out Darpan 2.0 on Tuesday. In Karnataka, 7,960 rural post offices have been covered under the project.

The newer version of the digital advancement of Rural Post Office for a New India (DARPAN) has been completely developed in-house. Chief Postmaster General, Karnataka Circle, Rajendra S Kumar said, "Devices with Android application have been handed over to officials at rural post offices. They are generally manned by a single person. A total of 4 lakh bank transactions have already been recorded on them."

Customers stand to benefit as transactions will be much faster. "The earlier system which expired on September 30 this year used the Linux software with numerous vendors, including TCS and Infosys, providing us services. All the services have been clubbed together and completely developed in-house here," the CPMG said. Multiple works can be done if the account is linked to Aadhaar.

To ensure no disruption in services in rural areas after the previous system expired, postal employees worked during the weekend and on Gandhi Jayanti to ensure the new software would carry out all the required operations without any glitches, he said. It had begun at different places across the country over the last couple of days, but on Tuesday, it became operational across Karnataka, he said.

"Users took to the new application easily since it was developed as a mobile application which is easy to use. The workflow is intuitive," he added.

44 new services at Bapuji Seva Kendras

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Rural Development and Panchayat Raj (RDPR) department rolled out 44 additional services at Bapuji Seva Kendras in gram panchayats. These are in addition to the existing 28 utility services. The government has decided to provide income and caste certificates, address-proof and other important documents at Bapuji Seva Kendras in an efficient and speedy manner, said RDPR minister Priyank Kharge.

According to a release from RDPR, the services available at Atalji Janasnehi Centres in Nadakacheris will now be provided at Bapuji Seva Kendras at gram panchayats. Chief Minister Siddaramaiah rolled out services that will facilitate people in rural areas to avail services at their convenience. Along with the services offered by the RDPR department, people can also avail services provided by the departments of labour, health, family welfare, power, women and child welfare.

Each hobli consists of 6-7 gram panchayats with a population of 20,000-50,000 and people were required to visit utility centres in these hoblis to avail of government services and it was causing inconvenience. In order to reduce their burden, government decided to provide services that were part of Atalji Janasnehi Centers directly through gram panchayats.

NEED MORE ASSISTED LIVING FACILITIES IN CITY: KJ GEORGE

BENGALURU: "There is a need for assisted living facilities in Bengaluru to provide a safe and supportive environment for elders, so that they can lead their lives stress-free and with dignity," said Energy Minister K J George after inaugurating 'Feel at Home Assisted Living Elderly Care Centre' at Lingadeeranahalli, near Thalaghattapura Metro Station, on Tuesday. "India's elderly population is growing rapidly. Due to urbanisation and change in societal structure, elders suffer emotional neglect and face challenges in completing daily activities," George said. He also pointed out the recent UN report that highlighted India's ageing population will reach 15% by 2036. Feel at Home Assisted Living Elderly Care Centre, by BC Shivanna Foundation in association with Alamance IT Solutions LLP, can accommodate 54 senior citizens with professional caregivers to provide geriatric assistance and provides in-house paramedical service with clinical beds and basic medical facilities for both, short and long stay options. Dr Thriveni BS, President of BC Shivanna Foundation and Co-founder of the elderly care centre said, "Karnataka is witnessing a generational change with a growth in the number of elders." ENS

Lab-made enzymes to cut toxicity of polluted water

ENS @ Bengaluru

RESEARCHERS at the Indian Institute od Science (IISc) have discovered enzymes that can successfully degrade toxic chemicals in industrial waste water in the presence of sunlight. This research could be a game-changer in treating waste water and reducing toxicity.

This will be important, since according to a Karnataka State Pollution Control Board (KSPCB) report, 68 Bengaluru lakes fall under the 'D' and 40 in the 'E' category, which only qualify for the propagation of wildlife and fisheries and for industrial cooling, irrigation and controlled water disposal.

IISc scientists have produced nano-sized enzyme mimetics or nanozymes, manufactured in the lab that can mimic natural enzymes. These nanozymes can also overcome challenges such as easily damaged, complex production procedures, high costs, and difficulties in recycling – which generally makes natural enzymes unpractical.

"Enzymes are proteins that catalyse a majority of biological reactions in living systems. However, the practical use of natural enzymes is greatly hindered. Laccase, a natural enzyme used for degrading phenols in industries, is extracted from a fungus called white rot, but the amount of enzyme produced depends on how much of the fungus is available," said Subinoy Rana, Assistant Professor at Materials Research Centre (MRC), IISc, and corresponding author of the paper published in Nanoscale.

He added that such enzymes can be made in only milligram amounts and is an expensive affair. Another problem is storage, most of the natural enzymes are temperature-sensitive and require storage at -20°C. However, nanozymes that researchers produced in the labs can mimic the properties of natural enzymes and overcome all the problems including producing them at an industrial scale at a minimal cost.

The IISC team tested the nanozyme's effect on common effluents that pollute water such as phenols and dyes and discovered that it could degrade even small (micromolar) quantities of the products within ten minutes when placed under sunlight.

Scientists synthesised the nanozyme on a platinum-containing called NanoPtA, which can be converted into powder form for industrial use. "It mimics the function of oxidases – natural enzymes that remove hydrogen from substrates (the underlining layer) in the presence of oxygen to give water and can withstand a range of pH and temperature changes," said the paper.

AS VEHICLE SALES INCREASE, SO SHOULD PUBLIC TRANSPORT

RECORD car sales can be seen as a sign of economic prosperity. During the first half of the current financial year, the sale of passenger vehicles in India is set to reach the 20-lakh mark for the first time ever. The September dispatches are expected to be over 3.6 lakh units, which would be another industry record. Over the next few months, the market is going to ride the festive cheer and likely set new records. This is great news for the industry, but is definitely not good for our cities that are reeling from congestion and pollution.

What is worrying city planners is the slow-paced expansion of public transport facilities and inadequate city road infrastructure. For fund-starved state governments and urban local bodies, city roads may not be a priority. The existing roads are crumbling and congestion is rising waywardly. In the rainy season, potholes are commonplace and road accidents regular because of these dangerous traps. Frequent flooding and erosion of roads are not uncommon. All state-run transport companies are bleeding profusely; this has directly impacted the quality of their services. Bad roads take a toll on their buses and, post Covid, the number of buses operated by them has shrunk drastically, leaving riders stranded. While the central government is pushing cities to implement metro rail networks in joint ventures with state governments, their adequate spread remains a dream in most cities.

On the other side, rapid and ad hoc urbanisation has led to a number of problems. Significant increases in population density and a road infrastructure that is not keeping apace are just two of them. Growth in highways and motorways is good for interstate connectivity. But where are the city roads? The central and state governments need to sit across the table and implement cohesive policies to tackle this issue. Cities may need to raise large amounts of finances to promote green and sustainable transport options. A recent World Bank report estimated that nearly $840 billion would be required for investment in urban India over the next 15 years to meet the growing demands of the population. This amounts to an average of $55 billion a year. Seamless transportation services will be one of the prime targets. Creating a conducive environment for state governments and urban local bodies to borrow funds will be critical for implementing these projects.

Laws and courts have failed to solve the inter-state dispute for two centuries. It is easier for state politicians to take up positions, trickier for national leaders

CAUVERY CUTS THOUGH SLOGAN OF ONE NATION

SUGATA SRINIVASARAJU

Senior journalist and author of Strange Burdens: The Politics and Predicaments of Rahul Gandhi

SOUMYADIP SINHA

THE river Cauvery has yet again become a battlefield. The river as a battlefield without a terra firma to imagine is a kind of drowning metaphor. Two full days in the previous week was shutdown time in Karnataka. It was more a kind of self-flagellation exercise, a summoning of a default posturing tool, than anything that would lead to a constructive relief with regard to the sharing of the river water with Tamil Nadu.

The two days of bandhs were not meant to, and were unlikely to, change the opinion of either the Cauvery Water Management Authority or the Supreme Court. They had ordered Karnataka to release water even after the drought and distress argument was made.

The day after the second bandh, a taxi driver in Bengaluru who had suffered wage loss for two full days, asked in desperation: "This problem was there when I was born and will exist when my grandchildren are born, how can anybody solve it?" The taxi driver's common sense was correct about both the larger aspect of the complex dispute that had a history of nearly 200 years, and at the micro level, where rhetoric and response have remained intransigent for decades.

In a hurry to create a flat, unitary slogan for nationalism, we seem to have forgotten the multitudes that make a nation. There are sub-nationalisms that are distinct from the currently popular variety of nationalism, and these sub-nationalisms too are constructed to fiercely guard a state's territorial, linguistic and water interests. That has in fact become the cultural extension of the idea of federal autonomy. As a result, the parties that claim to be national may find it extremely difficult to get an entry point on the three aspects in the states.

We do not know what exactly the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) and the Congress will say or do when it comes to inter-state water disputes, especially in cases where law or court judgements have never been accepted as a final solution—where emotion trumps reason. It is easier for the two main Dravidian parties in Tamil Nadu, the Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (DMK) and the All India Anna Dravida Kazhagam (AIADMK), and in Karnataka the Janata Dal Secular (JDS) to take a clearer position on these aspects. Their imagination need not be vast, visionary and amorphous, but specific and real. That is what is being heard in the last few weeks.

There has been a continuous demand for the Narendra Modi-led BJP government to sort this out, for the prime minister to intervene and mediate, but there is only silence. What happens when prime ministers get involved in inter-state water disputes is known from our recent past—PV Narasimha Rao, HD Deve Gowda and AB Vajpayee were put in a quandary and put to a severe test of patience and loyalties.

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi in the last couple of years may have been very vocal about India being a 'union of states' but still may not find it easy to intervene on the Cauvery issue. He has remained quiet on all wrenching federal issues. He may expect his party's local units to respond with deliberate duality. Also, one does not know what Mallikarjun Kharge, the Congress's national president from Karnataka, thinks of the distress situation. He certainly did not speak up in parliament nor has he made a statement outside. The regional parties are pushing the BJP government to intervene, and for the Congress to straighten its political ally in Tamil Nadu.

There was only one unusual thing this time as the Cauvery dispute erupted. BJP's parliamentarian from Karnataka, Lahar Singh Siroya, went to meet MK Stalin, the Tamil Nadu chief minister. He pleaded unsuccessfully with Stalin to meet Siddaramaiah, his Karnataka counterpart, for a mediated distress settlement than an impersonal and long outing in the courts. He said he was a non-Kannadiga and a non-Tamilian and it gave him a unique vantage to make this non-partisan push in the name of a humanitarian crisis. He did not want to viewing it as a regional conflict. He argued that in the age of migration there cannot be a state-specific interest because Tamil and Kannada speakers are distributed across the border. He refused to mix politics and offered a more rational argument to make for his party and the Congress.

There is a new book that meticulously documents the colonial origins of the Cauvery dispute. The very title of the book by C Chandrashekar, a retired IPS officer, decolonises the river's name by calling it Kaveri Dispute: A Historical Perspective. Although written from the point of view of the erstwhile Mysore's historical disadvantage as a princely state against the Madras presidency under British rule, it endeavours to place the several attempts and agreements to harness the Cauvery water in a broad and fair context—right from 1794 when Tipu Sultan laid the foundation for a dam across the river. It thankfully escapes the sub-nationalist rhetoric we are familiar with in such writings, but hinges on archival study.

The little known HD Griffin arbitration from 1913-14, which has all but disappeared from public memory, is an eye-opener in Chandrashekar's book. It represented Mysore's interests better but was rejected. It is forgotten between the more discussed 1892 and the 1924 agreements that have come to cast a long legal shadow on the Cauvery dispute in independent India. The book asks a series of rhetorical questions, which are extremely relevant. It asks when the British paramountcy lapsed after independence in 1947, why did the uneven agreements between Indian territories not lapse? It also wonders why the Mysore king did not raise this when the Government of India Act was passed in 1935 or when he signed the standstill agreement in 1947.

Sadly, the unevenness the British nurtured and hierarchies they created even in water sharing agreements, where princely Mysore as an upper riparian state could not do anything with Cauvery without the permission of Madras Presidency, remained central to the dispute even in free India and after the reorganisation of states. Anyway, the final verdict of water sharing in 2018 was accepted by both sides but the distress formula is not in place, and can never easily be in place. Sub-nationalist rhetoric will never allow the other's distress to be bigger or genuine.

PLASTIC IN CLOUDS MUST JOLT PLANET TO ACTION

THE only material that can be called truly omnipresent is plastic. Malleable and maleficent, it is everywhere and not going away anytime soon. It makes our lives easier, but is the planet's biggest curse too. A study published recently has tracked the alarming heights plastic appears to have scaled—a group of Japanese scientists found microplastics in clouds for the first time. The researchers took cloud water samples from Japan's highest peak, Mount Fuji, and Mount Oyama outside Tokyo last year and arrived at the fascinating and disturbing understanding. The report, published in the journal Environmental Chemistry Letters, revealed that at least nine varieties of microplastics including polyethylene, polypropylene and polycarbonate had been found in the cloud water samples. A rubber compound was detected, too. We know of the burden of plastic on Earth's surface; this study is the first to detect airborne microplastics in the free troposphere.

According to the UN Environment Programme, at least 430 million tonnes of plastic is produced every year and two-thirds of it ends up as waste, eventually going into the land, river systems and oceans, throttling their ecosystems. It is found in the digestive tracts of deep-sea marine species as well as in the wombs of pregnant women. This recent study found seven to thirteen pieces of microplastics measuring seven to ninety-four micrometres in a litre of cloud water. "Our finding suggests that high-altitude microplastics influence cloud formation and, in turn, might modify the climate," says the report. This changes our understanding in two fundamental ways. First, that plastics went to the free troposphere from the oceans. Second, these microplastics may have formed the 'condensation nuclei' of clouds, which means we may have plastics in rain water.

The new study must act as a wake-up call. The Supreme Court banned single-use plastic last year. Earlier, some states used the model Plastic Waste Management Rules 2016 (amended in 2021) to restrict usage. Sikkim stood out by banning plastic carry-bags of any thickness. Yet, overall success has been limited. Much of it has to do with the pushback from producers. India must take a fresh look at its extended producer responsibility plan, strengthen plastic segregation in every municipal and rural body, seek better alternatives, and upgrade recycling technology. The Swachhata Hi Seva campaign would do well to take up the fight against plastic pollution.

NO PERFUME FOR PILOTS

INDIA's airline safety office says thirty-three pilots and ninety-seven crew members were found drunk on duty in the first half of 2023. Pilots and the cabin crew need to take breath alcohol tests before flying in India; those flying in from abroad need to be tested soon after landing. Mouthwash and tooth gel had been banned because they were used to dodge the test; this week perfumes that contain alcohol were added to the list. The problem troubles airlines the world over; we are glad India recognises the risk. Those trusted with our lives should adhere to the rule and be grounded if they fail to heed a warning.

A BLUEPRINT TO TACKLE THREE CRISES FACING THE BLUE PLANET

K N NINAN

Lead Author, Global Environment Outlook-7, United Nations Environment Programme, Nairobi

NEVER has mankind faced multiple environmental crises as the present generation. To quote the United Nations secretary-general António Guterres: "We have been poor custodians of our fragile earth. Today the Earth is facing a triple planetary crisis. Climate disruption. Nature and biodiversity loss. Pollution and waste. This triple crisis is threatening the well-being and survival of millions of people around the world."

The world has failed to achieve the internationally agreed environmental goals relating to climate change, biodiversity conservation and pollution. The Sixth Assessment Report of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change released in 2022 notes that unless countries accelerate mitigation, the world is most likely to overshoot the global warming limits of 1.5°C or 2°C above pre-industrial levels which were agreed at the Paris Climate summit in December 2015. The report warns that global average temperatures are likely to reach a median of 2.2 to 3.5°C by the year 2100, making us more vulnerable to catastrophic events and reducing global gross domestic product by 1.3 to 4.2 percent by 2050.

Degradation of biodiversity and ecosystem services has continued unabated, if not accelerated. According to the Centre for International Forestry Research, the world loses $6.3 trillion worth of ecological services each year due to forest and land degradation. A United Nations report notes that air pollution is the main environmental contributor to the global burden of disease, causing six to seven million premature deaths and welfare losses estimated at $5 trillion every year. Plastic pollution has emerged as a major problem with the world producing 400 million metric tons of plastic waste annually, of which only 9 percent is recycled; the rest is dumped into landfills, rivers, lakes and oceans.

The United Nations Environment Programme recently started on the seventh edition of the Global Environment Outlook report titled Actions for a Healthy Planet. The report focuses on finding solution pathways in the food, energy, materials or waste and economic sectors. Its emphasis is on bringing about transformative changes and innovative solutions in these sectors to realise the goal of a healthy planet.

In the energy sector, it focuses on improving access to clean energy especially among poor and vulnerable sections, and enhancing the development and adoption of energy-efficient technologies. Apart from phasing out fossil fuel use, the introduction of low greenhouse gas (GHG) emission technologies including sustainable and equitably-produced bioenergy, hydropower, solar and wind energy must be accelerated. The potential of green hydrogen needs to be tapped. This has important co-benefits for climate, air quality and human health.

Global population is projected to rise to 9.8 billion by 2050. With population and incomes rising, food production must be scaled up. Sustainable intensification of agriculture to raise crop yields, improvements in food distribution, and reduction in food loss and waste, which UN agencies currently peg at almost a third of food production, are other measures.

NASA

The three crises facing Earth are climate change, biodiversity loss and pollution. The UN has worked on a framework to address them

The Kunming-Montreal Global Biodiversity Framework for the period 2022–2030 calls for reducing the loss of bio-rich areas and critical ecosystems to near zero by 2030, ensuring the conservation of 30 percent of all terrestrial and inland waters, and coastal and marine areas, restoring 30 percent of degraded ecosystems, and reducing by half the threats posed by invasive species.

Rapid urbanisation is a major driver of global warming, biodiversity loss and pollution. By 2050, around 68 percent of the world's population will reside in urban areas. Establishing smart and sustainable cities that rely on modern digital technologies; engaging with citizens for addressing key sustainability challenges for cities such as transportation, consumption choices, energy, water and waste management; investing in mass rapid transit systems based on sustainably produced electricity; increasing the green cover; and conserving lakes in urban areas will help in reducing urban heat islands and managing stormwater and extreme weather events such as floods.

Without behavioural and lifestyle changes by individuals and societies it will be difficult to reverse the present trajectory of rapid environmental degradation. Shifting towards sustainable and healthier diets will protect the environment and humans' health. Increasing consumption of millets and replacing natural meat with cultured and lab-grown meat are among the measures recommended for lessening pressure on land, water and forest resources as well as reducing GHG emissions.

The zero-pollution action plan seeks to make ecosystems healthy by drastically reducing air, water and soil pollution by 2050. Tightening regulatory mechanisms and effectively implementing them are key to achieving this vision. Sustainable agriculture also needs a reduction in the nitrogen and phosphorus imbalance to reduce pollution of freshwater systems, groundwater, and coastal zones in oceans.

Improving the data and knowledge base, integrating traditional knowledge and citizen science with science-based information, and exploiting the potential of emerging data sources and technologies will help to better monitor environmental change and formulate effective policies to address the environmental crisis.

Other measures include disincentivising unsustainable practices and environmentally harmful subsidies; introducing policies to improve resource use efficiency; upscaling local-level transformative projects and innovative solutions; improving public awareness about sustainability-driven consumer choices; creating an enabling environment for niche innovations; and phasing out unsustainable products and industrial processes.

These measures will help bring about a transformation in societies' relationship with nature by 2030, in line with the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and its Sustainable Development Goals, and ensure that by 2050, the shared vision of living in harmony with nature is fulfilled.

Oppn slams govt's 'coercive' action on portal

BJP, however, defends the raids saying law enforcing agencies free to act on anything that goes against the law

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @New Delhi

THE raids by Delhi police's special cell on various locations in the NewsClick portal funding case drew mixed reactions from political parties on Tuesday.

The BJP defended the raids saying the law enforcing agencies were free to act against anything that goes against the law. The law will take its course in the case, the BJP said.

On the other hand, opposition parties, including Congress, lambasted the Central government for the raids.

Information and Broadcasting Minister Anurag Thakur denied government involvement in the raids. He said probe agencies in the country are independent and work as per law. "I need not justify the raid. If someone has done something wrong, probe agencies work on it... Nowhere is it written that if you have got money through illegal manner or done something objectionable, then probe agencies cannot investigate that," Thakur told the media.

BJP spokesperson Shehzad Poonawalla told media that the law enforcing agencies discharge their duty impartially.

However, Congress termed the raids a kind of imposition of emergency on the freedom of press. The Opposition INDIA bloc strongly condemned the raids and alleged that the BJP government's "coercive" actions were directed only against those who speak the truth and not against those who spread hatred and divisiveness.

Taking to X, Congress leader KC Venugopal said INDIA stands against any form of intimidation or silencing of journalistic voices. "We are on the side of democracy, not dictatorship," he said, adding that BJP government had tried to convert the media into a mouthpiece for its partisan and ideological interests by facilitating the media takeover by crony capitalists.

The Congress also alleged that the raids on journalists were a "fresh distraction" from the "explosive" findings of the caste survey in Bihar and the growing demand for a caste census in the country.

Congress leader Shashi Tharoor slammed the government over the raids, saying these are not the actions of a "mother of democracy" but of an "insecure and autocratic state."

"The government has disgraced itself and our democracy today," Tharoor posted on X. Other parties such as the RJD, Leftists and others also condemned the government. The AAP said the raids were meant to scare the journalists.

CPM general secretary Sitaram Yechury said cops also landed at his official residence in Delhi, but they had come to question son of a party staff who works for the website.

Referring to the raids, D Raja, general secretary of Communist Party of India also launched offensive against the Centre. "BJP's crackdown on media has already brought India among the bottom 20 countries in press freedom. Delhi Police under direct control of MHA raided the residences of journalists Urmilesh, Bhasha Singh, Abhisar Sharma, Paranjoy Guha Thakurta & others and seized laptops and phones," he posted on X.

Terming the incident an attempt to gag the media, he said, "They just took his laptop and phone." He said he "strongly condemns the growing brazen assaults on the media." The party also criticised the action. It called upon all Indians to rise in unison to protest against such a conspiracy.

Deployment in Eastern Ladakh to continue: IAF chief

MAYANK SINGH @New Delhi

AMID the Chinese PLA's enhanced levels of deployment in eastern Ladakh, the Indian Air Force is continuing its dynamic operational plans and will continue its deployment until disengagement from all points is complete.

"The situation continues to remain what it was in the last one year. There have been disengagements in certain contested areas. But a complete disengagement has not yet taken place," Chief of Air Staff ACM VR Chaudhari told the media on Tuesday. "We will continue to remain deployed till a complete disengagement takes place," he added.

The IAF is gearing up to celebrate its 91st anniversary on October 8.

The IAF keeps a watch on China's rapid expansion of military infrastructure and deployment across the borders, said the Chief, through ISR (intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance) mechanisms.

"We take note of the build-up of resources and capabilities across the borders. Our operational plans are very dynamic and keep changing based on the situation that we perceive across any front," he said.

> VR Chaudhari, Chief of Air Staff

"In places where we cannot really counter the numbers or the might of the adversary, we will counter it through better tactics and through better training," he said.

The Air Chief Marshal said the IAF does not have a fixed mindset in terms of the deployment of assets in key areas along the LAC.

The IAF is also going ahead with the induction of modern platforms. A contract to procure 97 Tejas Mark 1A aircraft at a cost of around ₹1.15 lakh crore will be concluded soon.

The IAF Chief said the force is looking at inducting military platforms, equipment and defence hardware worth around Rs 2.5 lakh crore in the next seven-eight years. The force is in the process of deploying mountain radars to improve surveillance along the borders.

On Day 1, Muizzu says will remove all 'foreign militaries' from Maldives

YESHI SELI @New Delhi

PROVING right speculations that India's ties with Maldives would come under strain under its new president, Mohamed Muizzu announced on his first day in office that he would send back all foreign soldiers from the country. The only foreign military presence in Maldives is that of India.

Muizzu is known to have strong leanings towards China, like his mentor and former President Abdulla Yameen.

Earlier, the outgoing president Ibrahim Mohamed Solih had faced strong criticism from Muizzu, then the leader of opposition, for allowing "unchecked Indian presence in Maldives". Solih, in turn, had insisted that the Indian military was in the Maldives solely to construct a dockyard under an agreement between the two governments.

Muizzu on Tuesday declared that he had decided to send back the foreign soldiers as demanded by the citizens of Maldives. He also said that removal of the military presence will not have any major impact on diplomatic relations.

Muizzu won the presidential poll defeating incumbent Solih, who was a close aide and friend of India. Muizzu secured 54 per cent votes against 46 per cent that Solih could manage.

When Muizzu's Progressive Party of Maldives was last in power, it oversaw heavy Chinese loans for the nation.

Meanwhile, during his election campaign, Muizzu had also promised to release former president Abdulla Yameen, who is in jail on corruption charges. Yameen was not just pro-China, but was also vehemently anti-India. He was responsible for executing the 'India Out' campaign even as he was languishing in jail. Once he is out, chances of India's presence and clout decreasing in Maldives will be stronger.

Muizzu on Tuesday also said he would meet ambassadors of different countries, in accordance with the law.

India and Maldives have shared diplomatic, defence, economic and cultural ties for the last six decades. Placed at a crucial geographical location in the Indian Ocean, Maldives is vital to India's strategy for the region.

For its part, Maldives benefits from India's economic assistance and net security provision. India has assisted Maldives in various ways since its independence in 1965, such as its pursuit of socio-economic development, modernisation and maritime security.

However, all that is likely to change. Much like they did when Yameen came to power in 2013, India-Maldives relations spiralled downward with his crackdown on democracy, proximity towards China, and anti-India rhetoric used to muster nationalist sentiments.

DELHI Police detained Trinamool Congress leaders, including the party's general secretary Abhishek Banerjee, late on Tuesday as they were holding a dharna in front of the Ministry of Rural Development in the national capital.

The TMC leaders and supporters, who were in Delhi to press for release of Central funds to West Bengal including those funds under the MGNREGA, protested at Jantar Mantar on Tuesday.

On Monday as well, they had held a two-hour sit-in at the Rajghat, before being evicted.

On the second day of protest, Banerjee, along with other TMC lawmakers, ministers and supporters, took out a march to the Krishi Bhavan, where they were to meet Minister of State Sadhvi Niranjan Jyoti.

The Trinamool Congress leaders accused that after being made to wait for around one and a half hours, the minister refused to meet them, demanding that she would not meet more than five representatives. However, the TMC leaders refused to leave.

The party leaders, led by Banerjee, then sat on a dharna in front of the Krishi Bhavan till around 9 pm, after which they were detained by the police and evicted from the premises.

Trinamool Congress claimed that the police has even taken phones of some leaders.

ULFA executes 2 members for spying for police

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Guwahati

THE Paresh Baruah faction of insurgent group United Liberation Front of Assam (ULFA) executed two of its members for reasons including alleged spying. The two – Lachit Hazarika alias Brigadier Salim Asom and Bornali Asom alias Nayanmoni Chetia – were killed on September 20, the ULFA said in a statement on Tuesday.

The execution took place apparently on the soil of Myanmar where the outfit operates from. Hazarika was a senior member and he hailed from northern Assam's Lakhimpur district. Bornali, who was a boxer from upper Assam's Tinsukia district, had joined the group in 2021.

When reports about the duo's killing spread earlier in the day, the family of Bornali appealed to the ULFA leadership to clarify the matter and hand over her body if she was, indeed, awarded capital punishment.

"She went out one fine day (two years ago) telling us that she was going to play but never returned. There was no trace of her since and she also never contacted us," the mother said.

17 charges

The ULFA levelled 17 charges against the duo. It includes that they helped Indian spy agencies, made colleagues surrender before enemies along with arms after blackmailing them, killed fleeing colleagues in fake encounters

The ULFA levelled 17 charges against the duo. The charges include that they helped Indian spy agencies, made colleagues surrender before enemies along with arms and ammunition after blackmailing them with the help of the outfit's women members, and killed fleeing colleagues in fake encounters.

The other charges were that they destroyed weapons and radio sets of the organisation as part of a conspiracy after being influenced by police and army officers. They caned junior colleagues over small matters without the approval of higher-ups, blackmailed women cadres for personal gain, shared with enemies details of secret routes that the organisation uses for movement, and inspired the new recruits to escape.

Infants among 59 dead in Maha hosps

Opposition alleges shortage of medicines; Shinde govt denies charges and promises probe

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

IN Maharashtra, 59 people — including 35 in state government-run Shankarrao Chavan Hospital in Nanded and 24 in Ghati hospital in Aurangabad — died in the last 48 hours. The dead incuded at least 16 infants. Opposition parties have alleged a shortage of medicines and lack of staff in these hospitals and demanded the culprits be booked for culpable homicide.

Chief Minister Eknath Shinde has ordered an inquiry. But he refuted the opposition's allegations that the deaths in Nanded and Ghati took place due to the shortage of medicines and unavailability of doctors. "The guilty will be punished after the findings of the probe committee. We have taken serious note of these incidents and sent a team comprising a minister and senior health department officials to the hospitals. They will submit a report soon," Shinde said.

"Every death at the Nanded hospital will be investigated individually by a committee. There are shortcomings and we will overcome them. The change will be visible (at the facility) in the next 15 days," said Medical Education Minister Hasan Mushrif

Shyamrao Wakode, the Dean of Dr Shankarrao Chavan Government Medical College and Hospital Nanded, said that there was no shortage of medicines or doctors, and the patients were given proper care, but their bodies did not respond to the treatment. Former Congress chief minister Ashok Chavan who comes from Nanded alleged that the death of 35 people was due to the shortage of medicines and unavailability of medical staffers.

"There are other 70 people who are in a serious condition. The health department should be serious when it comes to public health. We came to know that the medicine supply and recruitment of doctors have been stuck due to unknown reasons. The state government should fix the responsibility and improve the system," Chavan said.

Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra in a post on X on Monday demanded strict action against those responsible for the inordinate number of deaths and compensation for the affected families. "May God grant peace to the departed souls. My deepest condolences to the bereaved families. Strict action should be taken against those responsible and compensation should be given to the affected families," she said.

In a post on X, Rahul Gandhi expressed his grief at the news of the deaths and offered his condolences to the bereaved families. "The BJP government spends thousands of crores of rupees on its publicity, but there is no money for medicines for children? In the eyes of the BJP, the lives of the poor have no value," he alleged.

State Congress chief Nana Patole alleged that a 40% commission was demanded for the procurement of medicines by the state public health department and therefore, the medicine supply contract was stuck. He said earlier 17 people died in Thane Municipal Corporation-run civic hospital, but no lesson was learnt from such tragedies.

What's wrong with govt-run hospitals?

OCTOBER 13: 35 patients die in state govt-run Shankarrao Chavan Hospital in Nanded

Why it is unusual: Average daily death toll in hospital is 10. However, the hospital saw 16 infants dying

APPARENT CAUSE: SHORTAGE OF MEDICINES

AUG 13: 18 patients admitted to govt-run CSMM Hospital in Kalwa, Thane, died within 24 hours

REASON: Govt report not made public. But lack of coordination among doctors is cited as a reason as patients earlier admitted in private hospitals were brought in at the last moment

The public health system in the state is suffering from the disease of corruption. The entire system is on a ventilator

Modi says poor biggest caste for him

EJAZ KAISER @Raipur

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday said the poor in the country are the biggest caste, asserting that the first right over the nation's resources belongs to them.

Addressing the 'Parivartan Mahasankalp' rally of the BJP at Jagdalpur in Bastar in poll-bound Chhattisgarh, the Prime Minister said during the last nine years all schemes of his government made for the poor are instilling self-confidence among them.

"If the well-being of the poor are served, it will automatically lead to the nation's welfare. For me, the poor, whether dalits, backward, tribals or general category, remain the biggest caste. We have to care for them and change their lives. The welfare of the poor is my goal," Modi said.

He criticised that the Congress, speaking a "different language" on rights to be given in proportion to the 'abadi' (population) with caste-census as a "conspiracy", wants to divide the poor.

The Nitish Kumar government of Bihar released findings of its caste survey on Monday. Congress leader Rahul Gandhi during his visit to Chhattisgarh last week had asserted that caste-based census can provide people the rights in accordance with their population.

PM Modi accused the Congress of converting democracy into corruption and people's politics into dynasty politics. He attacked the Congress for saying that the population will decide their rights.

Rahul serves 'langar' at Golden Temple

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

RAHUL Gandhi visited the Golden Temple a second time in two days and offered 'sewa' at the 'langar' (community kitchen). The Congress leader also chopped vegetables and served chapattis and dal to the devotees in the community kitchen. Wearing a blue scarf on his head, he partook 'langar' while sitting on the floor. He spent most of his time in the community kitchen.

He also interacted with women devotees and later washed utensils.

To the surprise of devotees, he also served them water. He was also seen cleaning the steel grills at the entrance of the temple's sanctum sanctorum.

Dignitaries come to the Golden Temple and perform symbolic volunteer service. But it was rare for a politician to undertake a private visit to the shrine for more than a day and participate in volunteer services for hours, said a devotee.

On Monday night, along with the devotees, Rahul lent his shoulder to the Palaki Sahib (the golden palanquin carrying the Guru Granth Sahib) to the Akal Takht. He also listened to the Shabad Kirtan (religious hymns).

Punjab Congress chief Amarinder Singh Raja Warring said on Monday that Rahul is on a personal visit to the Golden Temple. On Monday, senior Punjab Congress leader Partap Singh Bajwa said the party always wished for a better future for the country, and therefore, apart from making other efforts, it also seeks the kindness of God.

Gehlot says sorry for 'judiciary corrupt' remark

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Jaipur

RAJASTHAN Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot has issued an apology for his recent statement concerning the judiciary. In a response filed with the Rajasthan High Court on Tuesday, Gehlot expressed that the views he had articulated in August were not representative of his personal beliefs.

He further noted that some previous judges had also made statements regarding corruption within the judiciary, and he had merely quoted them in his statement. Despite this, if his remarks had caused any harm to the dignity of the judiciary, he extended his sincere and unconditional apologies.

Advocate Prateek Kasliwal, representing Gehlot, said in response, "Many former judges have spoken about the corruption in the judiciary many times, these are not CM Gehlot's own views. He has full respect in the judiciary. Nevertheless, if his statement has hurt the judiciary he apologises unconditionally."

Kasliwal further added that they had also submitted documents containing statements made by former judges alongside Gehlot's response in court. The division bench of Chief Justice AG Masih in the High Court has scheduled the next hearing of the case for November 7, where Gehlot's statement will be formally recorded.

On August 30, Gehlot, during a media interaction in Jaipur, had alleged rampant corruption within the Judiciary. The CM had said that whether it is the lower judiciary or higher judiciary the situation is the same everywhere. "Today, we hear about the massive corruption in the judiciary," he had said and asserted that he had heard reports of lawyers drafting judgments and then acquiring those exact judgments, raising questions about the integrity of the judicial system at various levels.

Gehlot also supported allegations made by BJP MLA Kailash Meghwal against Union Law Minister Arjun Ram Meghwal, claiming that he had learned about extensive corruption during Meghwal's tenure, which had been concealed. Gehlot alleged that these individuals had secured a legal stay order from the High Court.

Gehlot's statement regarding the judiciary had triggered significant outrage within the legal community. Lawyers from the High Court to the state courts demonstrated against him.

Former Vice-President of the Rajasthan Bar Council (BCR), Yogendra Singh Tanwar, had submitted a complaint letter to the Chief Justice of the Rajasthan High Court regarding these allegations.

Numerous advocates too had filed petitions against CM Gehlot in the High Court. In response to Shivcharan Gupta's petition, the High Court had issued a notice to the Chief Minister, requesting his reply.

After caste survey, Nitish in all-party meet says will consider hiking quota

RAMASHANKAR @Patna

BIHAR Chief Minister Nitish Kumar on Tuesday held an all-party meeting after the release of caste-based survey data as one of the constituents of the Grand Alliance CPI (ML) and AIMIM demanded an increase in the reservation quota.

Nitish assured CPI (ML) legislative party leader Mehboob Alam and AIMIM MLA Akhtarul Iman that he would consider their demand. Both the leaders expressed their satisfaction over CM's assurance.

Alam said that caste count was conducted to remove socio-economic disparities. In future, whatever plans are made, they should be made keeping in mind caste disparities. He said that reservation should be increased on the basis of data obtained during caste count survey in the state.

State AIMIM president and MLA Akhtarul Imam said that the assessment of backward castes had been done. If the government wants to make schemes on the basis of this, the quota of reservation for backward classes and SCs should be increased. A separate quota for minorities should also be fixed, he said, adding that they were not getting their rights. The meeting which was held at CM Secretariat, 'Samvad', lasted for about two and half hours. Chief minister Nitish Kumar chaired the meeting, which was attended by representatives of nine parties.

Meanwhile, the state government will present the report on the economic status of various castes during the winter session of the assembly. The report will also be tabled in the assembly, representatives of different political parties said after the meeting ended.

Senior BJP leader and leader of opposition in the state legislative council Hari Sahni raised objection regarding the caste calculation in the meeting. He, however, did not comment about the objection he had raised. Sahni said that he would inform his leadership about the meeting and would talk about it only after that.

Earlier, Vijay Sinha said that there were several discrepancies in the survey report which were pointed out at the meeting. He said that six sub-castes in some cases have been kept together while 17 sub-castes of some have been divided separately. Congress legislature party leader Shakeel Ahmed Khan told mediapersons after the meeting that Bihar government conducted the caste-based survey from its own resources after Centre's refusal. Its effect will be very good, he added.

10% quota for EWS

The Nitish Kumar government in Bihar on Tuesday decided to provide 10% reservation to people belonging to economically weaker sections in state judicial services and state-run law colleges and universities. The cabinet approved the proposal for state judicial services, law colleges and universities.

Ukraine, Poland, Lithuania reach landmark deal on grain exports

KYIV

UKRAINE, Poland and Lithuania have agreed on a plan they hope will help expedite Ukrainian grain exports, officials said on Tuesday, with needy countries beyond Europe potentially benefitting from speedier procedures.

The deal means that grain inspections will shift from the Ukraine-Poland border to a Lithuanian port on the Baltic Sea, according to Ukrainian farm ministry.

The move seeks to facilitate the transit of Ukrainian exports through Polish territory, the statement said, without providing further details. From the Lithuanian port of Klaipeda, where the inspections for pests and plant diseases will take place from Wednesday, the grain can be exported by sea around the world.

While the stated goal is to hasten Ukrainian grain exports, the agreement may also help defuse tensions over grain prices between Ukraine and Poland a time when some international support for Kyiv's efforts to throw back Russia's invasion may be fraying.

Agricultural exports have brought one of the biggest threats to European unity for Ukraine since Russia invaded.

Russia dealt a huge blow by withdrawing in July from a wartime agreement that ensured safe passage for Ukrainian grain through the Black Sea. That has left more expensive overland routes through Europe as the main path for Ukraine's exports.

Farmers in nearby countries have been upset that Ukraine's food products have flooded their local markets, pushing prices down and hurting their livelihoods. Sealed freight has helped combat that problem, and sending Ukrainian grain straight to the Lithuanian port may also be an answer.

Poland, Hungary and Slovakia announced bans on local imports of Ukrainian food after EU embargo ended in mid-September.

NOBEL PHYSICS PRIZE

L'Huillier fifth woman to get Nobel in Physics

STOCKHOLM

ANNE L'Huillier, of Lund University in Sweden, is the fifth woman to receive a Nobel in physics.

In 1987, French-Swedish physicist L'Huillier "discovered that many different overtones of light arose when she transmitted infrared laser light through a noble gas," the Nobel Committee noted, adding that she has continued to explore this phenomenon, "laying the ground for subsequent breakthroughs."

L'Huillier told reporters she was in the middle of teaching a class when she received the call from the Academy, making it "difficult" to finish the class, to whom she told nothing. "I am very touched ... There are not so many women that get this prize so it's very, very special," she said.

Before L'Huillier, Marie Curie (1903), Maria Goeppert Mayer (1963), Donna Strickland (2018) and Andrea Ghez (2020) are the only women to have won the award.

Speaking later at a press conference, she encouraged young women interested in a career in science to "go for it."

The laureate, who is married and has two sons, stressed it was possible to combine a research career with an "ordinary life, with a family and children."

Pierre Agostini isolating light pulses since 2001

STOCKHOLM

IN the early 2000s, France's Pierre Agostini and Hungarian-Austrian Ferenc Krausz worked on experiments that made it possible to isolate light pulses that lasted only a few hundred attoseconds, a unit so short that there are as many in one second as there have been seconds since the universe's birth over 13 billion years ago.

In 2001, Agostini's team managed to flash a pulse that lasted just 250 attoseconds. L'Huillier's group beat that with 170 attoseconds in 2003. In 2008, Krausz more than halved that number with an 80-attosecond pulse.

Agostini is a professor at Ohio State University in the United States. Agostini was in Paris and could not be reached by the Nobel Committee before it announced his win to the world.

"I haven't had a telephone call from the committee. Perhaps it's not true. I don't know," he told the The Associated Press, laughing.

"I think the committee is looking for me in Columbus. There are certainly younger people who would have appreciated it far more than me," the 82-year-old joked. "It's good but it is a bit late for me." But he added, "I don't think I would have deserved it more earlier!"

Krausz's work on attoseconds for analysing blood

STOCKHOLM

BORN in 1962 in Mor, Hungary, Ferenc Krausz is a director at the Max Planck Institute of Quantum Optics since 2003 and professor of Experimental Physics at Ludwig Maximilian University of Munich since 2004.

It is interesting to note that both, L'Huillier and Krausz had been seen as contenders for the honour, having been awarded the prestigious Wolf Prize last year. The Wolf Prize is awarded to scientists and artists for achievements in the interest of humanity.

He was awarded the prize for "for pioneering and novel work in the fields of ultrafast laser science and attosecond physics and for demonstrating time-resolved imaging of electron motion in atoms, molecules, and solids."

His research team was the first to generate and measure attosecond light pulses and used them to capture electron motion inside atoms. Krausz's recent work at the Max Planck Institute of Quantum Optics includes attempts to use femtosecond and attosecond technology to analyse blood samples and to detect minute changes in their composition. His research team investigates whether these changes are specific enough to allow diseases to be diagnosed, unambiguously, in their initial stages.

Two killed, five hurt in shooting at Bangkok mall, 14-year-old arrested

BANGKOK

A 14-year-old boy was arrested on Tuesday after a shooting at a packed Bangkok mall that left two persons dead and five wounded, and sent hundreds of panicked shoppers running in terror into the streets.

Police said a suspect was taken into custody less than an hour after the first reported gunshots at the Siam Paragon Mall, long been seen as one of Bangkok's biggest and most upscale shopping destinations.

Video uploaded to social media and broadcast on television showed a long-haired teenage boy in the custody of police. Major Thai media said he was 14 years old, though recently appointed police chief Torsak Sukvimol said the 14-year-old suspect was in custody but was too confused to undergo questioning. "He is a mental patient at Rajavithi hospital and he has not been taking his medication," Torsak said. "He said it was like there was another him telling him who to shoot."

A private school called The Essence confirmed the suspect was one of their students.

The two deceased persons were Chinese and Myanmar nationals.

PM Srettha Thavisin said he was informed by police that one of the dead was a Chinese tourist about 30 years old. "I would like to express my deepest condolences to the family of the deceased following the shooting inside Siam Paragon," Srettha said. "I would like to give my moral support to the families of all who died and were injured."

Tallest Ambedkar statue to be unveiled in US

WASHINGTON

THE tallest statue of principal architect of India's Constitution, B R Ambedkar, outside India is all set to be unveiled in Maryland on October 14, the organisers have said.

The 19-foot statue, named 'Statue of Equality,' is part of the Ambedkar International Centre (AIC) being built on 13-acre land in Accokeek city of Maryland, approximately 35 km south of Washington.

''This is the largest statue of Babasaheb outside India and has been installed as a part of the Ambedkar Memorial being constructed at this centre,' said the AIC. Born on April 14, 1891, Dr Bhim Rao Ambedkar—popularly known among his followers as Babasaheb—was the chairman of the Constituent Assembly's most crucial Drafting Committee that earned him the moniker Architect of the Indian Constitution. He earned a Doctorate in Economics from the London School of Economics as well as a Doctorate from Columbia University. He also trained in law at Gray's Inn in London.

Corp guarantee on GST panel agenda

GST Council will also discuss exemption to millet, appointment terms of GSTAT members

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

The GST Council on October 7 is likely to take up the contentious issue of levying GST on personal guarantee provided by the Directors of the company to the banks in return for obtaining financial assistance. In addition, the tax implication of corporate guarantee in favour of a subsidiary company will also be discussed in the meeting, as per sources.

There is confusion whether GST should be levied on personal guarantees given by directors.

Experts feel the personal guarantee provided by the Director to the company is neither supply of goods nor services, and therefore, should not attract GST.

Abhishek Rastogi, a GST lawyer and founder of Rastogi Chambers said, "There is an absence of activity and hence there is an absence of service and therefore, no GST tax should be applicable on such transactions of personal and corporate guarantee to banks." Any recovery or show-cause notices issued in this regard will have to cross the constitutional validity, he adds.

The October 7 meeting is also likely to discuss the terms and conditions for the appointment of chairman and members of the GST appellate tribunals.

appointed to these tribunals. The purpose behind establishing these GST appellate tribunals is to provide a dedicated forum for taxpayers to appeal against decisions made by the GST authorities. This move is likely to streamline the dispute resolution process and offer a quicker and more efficient means of addressing GST-related appeals.

Besides this, the council may also deliberate upon making millets exempt from the GST net. Other clarifications related to services like GST imposition on redevelopment projects by builders are also on the agenda list. In a meeting held on August 2, the GST Council approved amendments to the GST laws.

These amendments provide clarity on the taxation of casinos, horse racing, and online gaming activities. Under the approved changes, a GST rate of 28% is applied to the full face value of bets in these three categories.

Recently, the government had officially notified the setting up of 31 such appellate tribunals. According to top officials, the first batch of these tribunals will become operational by the end of this year.

However, before they become operational, the centre needs to ensure that the requisite infrastructure is in place and competent members are

Abu Dhabi-based IHC increases stake in Adani Enterprises to over 5%

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

Abu Dhabi-based International Holding Co (IHC) on Tuesday said its holding in Adani Enterprises, the flagship firm owned by billionaire Gautam Adani, has increased to more than 5%. The development comes days after the investor said about offloading stakes in two other group companies - Adani Green Energy and Adani Energy Solutions- as part of its rebalancing strategy.

The value of IHC holding in AEL now stands at around ₹ 14,000 crore based on Tuesday's closing price. AEL's share closed 1% lower on Tuesday at ₹2,390 apiece and had a market cap of ₹ 2.72 lakh crore. IHC first invested in the company in May 2022. It bought 3.52% for ₹ 7,700 crore, the value of which now stands at ₹9,600, 25% higher. However, the fund has increased its holding to over 5% through open market purchases over the past few months. This incremental investment is worth more than ₹4,000 crore. This is more than what the company is expected to fetch from stake sale in the other two group companies, Adani Green Energy and Adani Energy Solutions. It holds 1.26% in Adani Green and 1.41% in Adani Energy Solutions, and the value of these stakes is around ₹3,200 crore based on Tuesday's closing. "This strategic increase reflects IHC's conviction in the world leading incubation model of AEL and we believe that the inherent strength of Airports, Data Centers, Green Hydrogen, and various other verticals being incubated under AEL and that AEL is poised to uniquely capitalize on India's robust growth journey. IHC continues to explore unique investment opportunities in India with the goal to maximize stakeholders' return," said the investor in its latest statement. An Adani Group spokesperson said that the investment validates AEL's standing as a global leader in incubating new businesses.

Bajaj General Insurance gets ₹ 1,010 crore GST notice

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company received a show cause and demand notice of ₹ 1,010 crore from the Director General of GST Intelligence, Pune unit, on 29 September 2023.

Bajaj Finserv, the holding company of the Bajaj Allianz General Insurance, said in an exchange filing.

World Bank sees India's GDP growth at 6.3%

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

The World Bank has maintained India's FY24 GDP growth estimate at 6.3%.

In its latest India development update, the World Bank has said that India continues to show resilience against the backdrop of a challenging global environment.

The report pointed out that the moderation in FY24 GDP growth estimate (from 7.2% in FY23) is owing to 'challenging external conditions and waning pent-up demand'.

The multilateral global bank said that global headwinds would continue to persist and intensify due to high global interest rates, geopolitical tensions, and sluggish global demand.

However, it feels that Indian economy will be supported by service sector activity, which it expects to remain strong with growth of 7.4%, and strong investment growth of 8.9%.

"Tapping public spending that crowds in more private investments will create more favorable conditions for India to seize global opportunities in the future and thus achieve higher growth," said Auguste Tano Kouame, World Bank's Country Director in India.

The World Bank expects fiscal consolidation to continue in FY24 with the central government fiscal deficit projected to continue to decline from 6.4% to 5.9% of GDP.

"Public debt is expected to stabilize at 83% of GDP. On the external front, the current account deficit is expected to narrow to 1.4% of GDP, and it will be adequately financed by foreign investment flows and supported by large foreign reserves," said the report.

On inflation, the report says that the inflation is expected to decrease gradually as food prices normalise and government measures increase the supply of key commodities.

Vedanta to sell steel biz by March 2024

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

Vedanta will sell its steel asset by March 2024, said Vedanta chairman Anil Agarwal on Tuesday. Agarwal, in an interview with a news channel said that the proceeds from the sale of the steel and iron business will help the company to reduce its debt.

The sale of the steel business will also help the company concentrate on its core mining business. Vedanta entered into the steel production market through the acquisition of ESL Steel in 2018 for ₹5,230 crore. The company began the review of its steel and steel raw material business in June 2023. Last week, Vedanta announced the demerger of its commodities businesses into six listed companies to unlock value and attract big investment. The company said the move will provide opportunities to global investors, including sovereign wealth funds, retail investors and strategic investors, with direct investment opportunities in dedicated companies. The companies are Vedanta Aluminium, Vedanta Oil and Gas, Vedanta Power, Vedanta Steel and Ferrous Materials, Vedanta Base Metals and Vedanta Limited. "By demerging our business units, we believe it will unlock value and potential for faster growth in each vertical. While they all come under the larger umbrella of natural resources, each has its own market, demand and supply trends, and potential to deploy technology to raise productivity," said Anil Agarwal, Chairman of Vedanta. The de-merger is planned to be a simple vertical split, for every 1 share of Vedanta Limited, the shareholders will additionally receive 1 share of each of the 5 newly listed companies.

AUTHORITIES MAY INTERVENE IN CURRENCY MARKET

Amid speculation that the government may intervene in the currency market as yen over around 150 a dollar mark, Japanese Finance Minister Shunichi Suzuki said on Tuesday that any decision on currency market intervention would be based on volatility, not specific yen levels. Analysts are expecting the government to intervene as if the yen breaches the 150-per-dollar threshold. Authorities are watching the currency market closely and stand ready to respond, Suzuki said, repeating a warning against speculative moves. "Currency levels won't be a factor for judgment" on whether to intervene, Suzuki said. "It's volatility that matters." The foreign exchange market showed little reaction to Suzuki's comments, although traders have been on watch for action by the Japanese authorities with the yen near levels that prompted intervention a year ago. Addressing a press conference, Suzuki also said the authorities were watching market moves with a high sense of urgency. "It was important for currencies to move stably, reflecting economic fundamentals," Suzuki told reporters.

REAL ESTATE FIRM EVERGRANDE GROUP CHAIRMAN INVESTIGATED FOR FRAUD

Chinese real estate firm Evergrande Group Chairman Hui Ka Yan is being investigated on suspicion of transferring assets offshore while the indebted property developer struggles to complete unfinished projects. Evergrande has been working to get creditors' approval to restructure its offshore debt but the process grew more complicated last week when the company said it could not issue new debt due to an investigation into its main China unit. Last week, the media reported that a group of offshore creditors was planning to join a court petition to liquidate the developer if it did not submit a new debt restructuring plan by the end of October. With more than $300 billion in liabilities, Evergrande has become the poster child of a debt crisis in China's property sector, which contributes to roughly a quarter of the economy. Trading in the shares of Evergrande and two of its units was suspended on Thursday after media reported that Hui had been taken away by police and was being monitored at a designated location.

NON-OIL BUSINESS ACTIVITY REBOUNDS IN SEPT

Growth in non-oil business activity in Saudi Arabia accelerated in September from an 11-month low the previous month as higher sales supported overall output, according to a survey. The seasonally adjusted Riyad Bank Saudi Arabia Purchasing Managers' Index rose to 57.2 in September from 56.6 in August, which was the lowest since September 2022, far above the 50 mark denoting growth and back above its long-run average of 56.9. Overall output rebounded from a 19-month low in August with the sub-index accelerating to 62.8 from 59.1 the previous month as new business expanded rapidly. The sub-index for new orders jumped four points to 64.2, although the pace of expansion remained slower than the average so far this year. Saudi Arabia has lowered its 2023 growth forecast and expects to post a budget deficit this year rather than an earlier projected surplus, according to a preliminary budget statement. But the government has increased its spending targets, which should support the non-oil growth forecast of 5.9% this year. While domestic demand was supportive, sales to foreign customers contracted for the second consecutive month, the survey showed.

The scrip listed ₹143 per share on the BSE and the NSE, at a premium of 20.17%. The company's share price closed at ₹157.30 per share on the BSE and NSE, a 32.18% premium.

The Market Capitalisation of the company at Tuesday's closing price stood at ₹33,033.02 crore. The initial public offering (IPO) by JSW Infrastructure, part of billionaire Sajjan Jindal-led JSW Group, had received a strong response and was subscribed 37.37 times.

The company was eyeing to raise ₹2,800 crore through its public issue which would be used to pay debt and support the company's aggressive expansion plans.

Arun Maheshwari, joint MD and CEO of JSW Infra said that post the cash received from the IPO, they are virtually debt-free now.

This is the third IPO by the JSW Group (after Steel and energy businesses). As of March 31, 2023, JSW Infrastructure's installed cargo handling capacity of 158.43 million tonnes per annum. JSW Infrastructure's port business operations expanded from one Port Concession at Mormugao, Goa (acquired by the JSW Group in 2002) where it commenced operations in 2004, to nine Port Concessions as of June 30, 2023 across the Western & Eastern coast of India.

The strong listing of JSW Infra came even as India's stock market was reeling under selling pressure on Tuesday. A rise in the US dollar and treasury yields on fears of another interest rate hike by the Federal Reserve has made equity investors nervous worldwide, especially in the emerging markets.

Further, a mixed auto sales number for September put pressure on auto stocks. The Nifty50 on Tuesday fell 110 points, or 0.56%, to 19,528.75 while the Sensex closed the day at 65,512.10, down 316 points, or 0.48%. ONGC, Eicher Motor and Maruti Suzuki were among the top laggards in the Nifty50 pack. Investors will now shift their focus to the policy outcome of the RBI Monetary Policy Committee whose outcome is due on October 6.

Dunzo again defers salary payments

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

Cash-strapped Dunzo has once again deferred the payment of pending salaries to its employees. The hyperlocal delivery start-up will now clear June and July salaries only in January or February 2024.

The start-up said that it is working towards ensuring all pending salaries are paid at the earliest. Meanwhile, the start-up denied the exit of another co-founder Mukund Jha.

In a statement, it said, he is not exiting Dunzo. Dunzo spokesperson said, "Mukund remains an integral part of Dunzo's leadership team. While we are restructuring the organisation with new leaders driving key mandates, Mukund will continue to be an important part of the strategic leadership team guiding and directing Dunzo's future roadmap." Reliance-backed delivery firm Dunzo's co-founder Dalvir Suri recently quit the start-up.

Hyundai Motor India to offer six airbags as standard across all variants

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

In an industry first, Hyundai Motor India on Tuesday said all the company models will now be fitted with 6 Airbags as standard, across all variants, including the base trim. At present, most carmakers offer the 6 airbag feature on the top-end variants of their model while the base models are fitted with either two or four airbags.

Hyundai also said that it obtained a 5-star safety rating in Adult & Child Occupant Protection by Global NCAP.

The South Korean carmaker also plans to volunteer three of its models for testing under the newly formulated Bharat New Car Assessment Programme (BNCAP).

In future, the company will send other models for safety ratings as well.

Under BNCAP, carmakers can voluntarily offer their vehicles tested as per the Automotive Industry Standard (AIS) 197. Based on the model's performance in the tests, it will be awarded star ratings on a scale of 0-5, for adult occupants (AOP) and child occupants (COP).

Unsoo Kim, MD & CEO at Hyundai Motor India said, "We are not just a provider of smart mobility solutions, but also safer mobility solutions."

"HMIL will continue to spearhead efforts in raising vehicular safety standards in India, thus making Indian roads safer for all," Kim added.

The decision by Hyundai to go with 6-airbags as standard comes even as Road Transport and Highways Minister Nitin Gadkari recently said that the government would not make it mandatory from October 1, 2023, for automakers to fit six airbags in passenger vehicles.

Long-distance runner from UP pips Japanese in last 25m; javelin thrower opens up about pressure & depression

#Goldwave: Parul & Rani

THE best long-distance racers know exactly when to time their finishing kick. A 15-minute race is reduced to a 20 second sprint to the line. A punishing 12 rounds around the brown mondo track is brought down to the final bend and the home straight. Most of the athletes are happy to keep pace with the leading pack without taking the lead; hovering somewhere in the vicinity before pushing for the line when the end is in sight.

Parul Chaudhary ticked all of those boxes to win a gold for the ages in the women's 5000m on another perfect track and field night inside the cavernous Hangzhou Olympic Sports Centre Stadium. She was second for a point of time in the early stages of the race before preferring to keep a watching brief over the top three.

When the leading pack spread out over the length of a football field with a lap to go, Chaudhary and Ririka Hironaka were the only women left with a chance of winning gold. Both Hironaka and Chaudhary, six years older than the Japanese at 28, were lapping athletes with less than a lap to go. It seemed like the Japanese had put a sufficient amount of distance between herself and the Indian but the margin had slowly been reducing. With less than 50m to go, Chaudhary changed the grammar of the race. Spotting an opening on the inside, she summoned an almighty kick and went for it. Hironaka, who was looking for incoming trouble on her outside, had left the inside unguarded and the Indian had capitalised to brutal effect. In the end, the steeple-chase specialist upgraded Monday night's silver to gold by the barest of margins (15:14.75 to 15:15.34). "God was kind enough tonight (Tuesday night)," she said after the race before joking: "... in the last 50m, I was thinking that my government would give me a nice job. (Deputy Superintendent of Police in her home state of UP) would be good."

I was depressed: Annu

While India's first gold medallist on Tuesday was tongue in cheek about a government job (she currently works with Railways), the other Indian to win gold at the athletic stadium felt she let the government down so much, she went into a depression. Annu Rani is a seasoned javelin campaigner at the best of times. But her touch had desert-ed her in 2023. After throwing a personal best of 63.8 in May 2022, the 31-year-old was primed to go up a level. Instead, her 2023 marks -- 59.24m, 58.22, 59.1, 54.76, 57.05, 52.54 and 57.74 – had left her in a very dark place. "I was contemplating quitting the sport," she said. "The government was spending crores of money and in return I wasn't able to perform. I was throwing around 54m, it wasn't very good."

On the day, though, she managed to throw a season's best before finding another season's best. After a below par 56.99m in her first attempt, she hurled the spear to a distance of 61.28m in her next throw. It was the best distance she had hurled the javelin since July 2022 (62.52m at an event in Chula Vista, USA, 13 meets ago). That throw propelled her into the top. With belief flowing through her veins, she threatened the 60m mark in her third (59.24m) before a mark of 62.92m helped her establish a handy lead over the likes of China's Huihui Lyu, a regular 65m+ thrower. With her having an off night, Rani finally enjoyed a night out after a year of regret.

"When an athlete from your own discipline does well, it naturally acts as a motivation for you also to do well," she said when asked about the kind of impact Neeraj Chopra has had. Chaudhary, who like Rani is also from Meerut, looked at herself in the mirror on Monday night. Silver was not going to be good enough. "Last night I was tired after winning the silver medal," she said. "Slept only for three hours. Since I wasn't able to win a gold medal in steeplechase, I wanted to get a gold in the 5000 somehow."

The strategy that she had devised with Scott Simmons, one of the coaches Athletics Federation of India brought in to oversee the country's endurance running programme, was simple. "The strategy was to stay with the pack regardless of the pace," Simmons explained after the race. "If the pace was too slow, we wanted her to push. But she never had to. The Japanese set a solid pace. It slowed in the middle, and when it started to heat up in the last 1000m, she looked like she was feeling strong. So she went with the Japanese and then we trained specifically for finishing kicks. And she has it. "I didn't want her to be slower than 15.20 pace which was 74 (seconds per lap), after the first km it was 72 (per lap). So I knew it was slowing down. It was in the neighbourhood of being a solid race. The leaders slowed down and she stayed with them. She didn't have to be in the lead, just be in the striking distance."

The US-based Simmons also reckoned that it was Chaudhary's extra gear that secured the race. "She wasn't complacent. She was going for gold, they both were. Parul just had the finishing kick right there at the end. We developed speed outside for 5000m and we also train for speed development."

Boxer Lovlina one step closer to Olympic dream

ANMOL GURUNG @ Chennai

WHEN hard work meets talent, it can generate wonders. Lovlina Borgohain is a perfect case in point. The lanky boxer from Assam is one of the rare breeds in the sport. She might be an Olympic medallist but she does not let her guard down. That hunger and determination is intact as he chases her ultimate dream — gold medal at Olympics, an uncharted territory so far for Indians (in boxing). It's like an obsession, albeit a healthy one.

On Tuesday, Lovlina — who hails from Baromukhia in Golaghat district — enhanced her chances of fulfilling her dream. Using her long reach to good effect, the 26-year-old got the better of Thailand's Baison Manikon by unanimous verdict in the women's 75kg semfinal of the ongoing Asian Games in Hangzhou. By booking a spot in the final, she ensured that she'll have another shot at the Olympics. Unlike many other weight categories, Lovlina's has just two quotas on offer in this Games. This is India's fourth Olympic quota in the sport so far. "She is stubborn and has always dreamt of winning a gold medal at the Olympics. After winning the bronze at the last Olympics (Tokyo), she is not satisfied. She is intent on changing the colour of the medal. This (Tuesday's victory) is one massive step," Tiken Borgohain, Lovlina's father, told this daily, when asked what motivates her to operate at a high level. With that single-minded focus, she had pocketed her first world title earlier this year in New Delhi. Tuesday's outcome is a timely push for her. She is now in a position of strength but she has had her share of knocks not so long ago. After the Tokyo Olympics, she was forced to change her weight category (shift from 69kg to 75kg). Her preferred weight category (69kg) was dropped from the Olympic programme. That transition phase was a tricky one as she missed out on a medal (70kg) during the 2022 Commonwealth Games. Before the competition, she was getting unwanted attention after she posted about her coach not being allowed in the Games Village.

Sindhu wants to learn from mistakes

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Hangzhou

CLOSE your eyes and visualise a peak PV Sindhu. What you inevitably see are her on court skills. The forward lunges, moving from front to back or side to side with ease and the punishing body smashes. All of them formed a part of her weapons collection. What, though, made the 28-year-old the total package was her durability. She just didn't tire irrespective of the kind of matches she played. It helped her redraw the contours of Indian sport at the elite level for such a long time.

2023? Not so much. After dancing with immortality for such a long time, Sindhu's year has been peak into what happens when the magic disappears. Her most common result has been a first round exit. Inside the Binjiang Gymnasium on Tuesday, the double Olympic medallist began another singles event in the hope of rediscovering her mojo. She dispatched Chinese Taipei's Wen-Chi Tsu with relative ease 21-10, 21-15 in 42 minutes.

During the match, it was hard to miss a device Sindhu was wearing just above her elbow. A health device, it's one of the subtle changes the new coach (Hafiz Hashim) has brought. "Just to know about my body, my pulse, how much it is... just to be aware of it and what needs to be done" she told this daily after the match. "We are trying new stuff. I think when you are doing heavy sessions or when you are playing a game, you should also know what's happening in your body, physically as well. When you are physically tired, you tend to get injured, you tend to get injured. So I think to protect against that... also important to know how your body composition is and if you are really tired, rest is required. It's not like you have to train 365 days. You have to rest your body whenever it's required."

Shuttler PV Sindhu has had a roller-coaster of 2023 | PTI

That's partly why she decided to give the China as well as the Hong Kong Opens a miss. "I had to take a break for China and Hong Kong because physically I felt I wasn't there. Going into a tournament and not able to give 100% won't give you confidence. In fact, you will be low (if you lose). So, I thought why not take a break and work on my mistakes."

She was very clear that she has made mistakes in 2023 but said the next part of her journey would be in learning from the lows. "I think it's been a roller-coaster (year), I would say. It happens to every athlete. That's not something unique or different. It's important how strong you comeback and learn from your mistakes because experience and losses teaches you a lot. So, even though it's been a roller-coaster, it's important to just stay in the moment, focusing and keep working." While she didn't directly attribute one particular reason for her diminishing returns this year, she seems to have felt the effects of the foot injury she sustained last year well into the new season.

STORY OF TOIL AND DISAPPOINTMENT: SPRINTER AMLAN REFLECTS AFTER ASIAD

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ HANGZHOU: TO witness athletes pour out their emotions, pay a visit to the nearest mixed zone. Inside the bowels of the Hangzhou Olympic Sports Centre Stadium on Monday night, Amlan Borgohain, India's 200m nat'l record-holder, is almost out of breath. But he wants to get something off his chest. Minutes ago, he had clocked a below average 20.98s (well off his best of 20.52) to finish sixth. After dragging himself off the track, he first asks the social media trolls to spread support. Full story: newindianexpress.com

HOW THEY LOOK?

ICC MEN'S CRICKET WORLD CUP INDIA 2023

With the 2023 ODI World Cup set to begin on Friday, a glance at South Africa, Netherlands and Sri Lanka...

World Cup won: Nil

ODI RECORD IN 2019-23 CYCLE

| | SOUTH AFRICA | NETHERLANDS | SRI LANKA |
|---|---|---|---|
| P | 40 | 34 | 56 |
| W | 21 | 8 | 30 |
| L | 15 | 24 | 24 |
| NR | 4 | T/NR 1/1 | 2 |

STRENGTHS: Their middle-order batters are their biggest strength this time around with Heinrich Klaasen in form of his life. Aiden Markram and David Miller have been brilliant in the series against Australia where they came back from 0-2 deficit to win 3-2. Markram provides solidity while Klaasen and Miller can destroy any bowling line-up on their day. The best part is the trio plays spin well, which somehow is the prerequisite as the tournament is happening in India.

DRAWBACKS: Always strong contenders with a tag of chokers, South Africa struggled for automatic qualification this edition. Their win over Netherlands in April this year meant they scraped through. The biggest worry for them will be an inconsistent bowling unit. They have Lungi Ngidi, Kagiso Rabada, Tabraiz Shamsi, Marco Jansen and Keshav Maharaj but death bowling remains a concern. Injury to Anrich Nortje was the last thing they would have wanted.

WC won: Nil

STRENGTHS: Clearly coming as underdogs in the tournament, the Men in Orange have nothing to lose. With no expectations, they can upset a few big sides as they did in their World Cup Qualifier when they defeated two-time champions West Indies in a Super Over. With five all-rounders - Colin Ackermann, Bas de Leede, Teja Nidamanuru, Saqib Zulfiqar and Roelof van der Merwe - in their ranks, they have the resources to cope with the vagaries of such a big tournament.

DRAWBACKS: Spin bowling is their Achilles' Heel. Their batters tend to struggle against spinners which was clearly visible during the World Cup Qualifiers. Off-break bowler Aryan Dutt is their most experienced specialist spinner with 25 ODIs under his belt. Legbreak googly bowler Shariz Ahmed along with offie Sybrand Engelbrecht has to come good on the Indian wickets if the team wishes to leave a mark in the tournament.

World Cup won: 1 (1996)

STRENGTHS: In the recent Asia Cup, Sri Lanka made it to the final without many of their first-choice players. Maheesh Theekshana and Matheesha Pathirana's awareness of Indian conditions and the experience of Dimuth Karunaratne and Kusal Mendis could push them over the line in close finishes. The graduation of Dunith Wellalage from the U19 wunderkind to the senior side has been quick, but the WC would test his abilities at the highest levels.

DRAWBACKS: Despite all the last-minute efforts to make them available for the WC, Dushmantha Chameera and Wanindu Hasaranga will miss the global event due to injuries. Losing Hasaranga is a huge blow given his familiarity with conditions and experience as an all-rounder. Dasun Shanaka has a huge responsibility on his shoulders. If their collapse in the Asia Cup final and the warm-up matches is any indication, other teams can exploit that loophole.

QUICK SINGLES

Rain washes out India's second warm-up match

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM: India's second World Cup warm up match against Netherlands was washed out due to incessant rain here on Tuesday. The game was abandoned without a ball being bowled. The hosts' opening warm up game against England also met with a similar fate in Guwahati last week. India is thus the only team that heads to the World Cup without any injuries. They will up against Australia in Chennai on Sunday.

Australia beat Pakistan in warm-up meeting

HYDERABAD: Australia beat Pakistan by 14 runs in a high-scoring warm-up clash that happened in Hyderabad on Tuesday. Glenn Maxwell top-scored (71-ball 77) for Australia while it was the late blitz from Josh Inglis and Cameroon Green that helped them post 351/7. In reply, Babar Azam scored 59-ball 90 before retiring, but it was not enough as Pakistan were all out for 337. In the Guwahati game, Kusal Mendis' 87-ball 158 against Afghanistan took Sri Lanka to 294. Rahmanllah Gurbaz scored 119 runs to guide Afghanistan home in the rain-affected encounter.

EXPLORING THE UNKNOWN

DEPTHS

THE OCEAN FLOOR IS WHERE THE ANSWERS TO THE QUESTIONS ON SUSTAINABILITY AND ALL LIFE ON EARTH REST. IT'S JUST THAT WE HAVEN'T EXPLORED ENOUGH...

1. The wreck of the Titanic sits silently 3,800 m beneath the North Atlantic; 2. A remotely operated vehicle scans a deep-sea coral habitat; 3. It's a dark, cold world deep in the abyss; 4. Lifeforms on the ocean floor make for an interesting study

HRITHIK KIRAN BAGADE & PURAN CHOUDHARY

HAVE you wondered what it's like in the Challenger Deep, at the southern tip of the Mariana Trench in the Pacific Ocean? This is the deepest known point on Earth, with average depths at 10,902–10,929 m. We are talking a depth of over 2 km more than Mount Everest's height. At this point, the water column above exerts a pressure of 15,750 pounds per square inch (psi), by which the density of water increases 4.96%. There is no sunlight and temperatures plummet well-below freezing, and yet life thrives here, and the challenge to reach the Challenger Deep has launched at least 22 expeditions to get here.

In 1960, US Navy Lt Don Walsh and Swiss oceanographer Jacques Piccard became the first humans to descend to the Challenger Deep, on board the bathyscaphe (self-propelled deep-dive submersible) 'Trieste'. This monumental feat anchored interest in the ever-evolving field of oceanography, the study of the physical and biological properties and phenomena of the sea, a confluence of science and adventure. Even today, Lt Walsh is a passionate advocate of ocean exploration, an area of research that has intrigued generations.

For thousands of years, the urge to go deeper and deeper into the abyss has fascinated explorers. "Despite the fact that oceans cover approximately 70% of Earth's surface and play a critical role in supporting life on our planet, from the air we breathe and the food we eat to weather and climate patterns, our understanding of the ocean remains limited," says the US' National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. We have only scratched the surface. It's estimated that over 80% of the world's oceans remain unexplored; and we know more about outer space than the inner ocean.

At the bottom of it

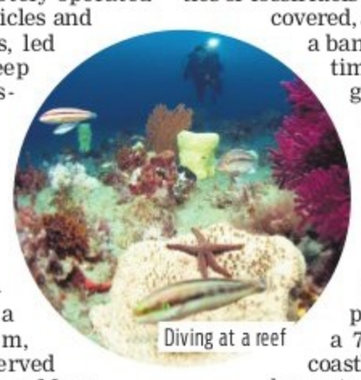
Scientists, anthropologists, conservationists, geologists and mystics argue that human connection with water is much deeper than land. Initially, it was for the fish. Thousands of years ago, Pacific island-hoppers dove into the shallow sea to hunt for food. As a curious species, we have always explored the unknown. This interest in the oceans for sustenance inspired the will to find what lay hidden across and under the vast body of water – for conquest, civilisation, economics, sport and science. Cutting-edge inventions, and the grit of the human spirit, took us to explore new worlds by sailing the seven seas, even as many took the plunge to go deeper.

As early as 1840, British Royal Navy officer Sir James Clark Ross carried out the first ocean deep-water sounding at 4,404 m in the South Atlantic Ocean, using the traditional method of lowering a hemp rope over the ship's side. In 1872, the HMS Challenger expedition helmed a multidisciplinary undersea survey with the primary goal of discovering deep-sea life – we have gradually come a long way in touching the ocean bed. Subsequently, the invention of diving bells, scuba equipment, bathyspheres, submarines, submersibles, remotely-operated underwater vehicles and benthic landers, led us to watch deep marine ecosystems up-close.



Diving at a reef

In 1930, William Beebe and Otis Barton became the first humans to reach the deep sea in a bathysphere, reaching a depth of 435 m, where they observed jellyfish and shrimp. More recently, a Smithsonian Institution team filmed the elusive giant squid using a crittercam attached to a sperm whale, which preys on it. These cameras are not left to rust on the ocean floor, but are released from the suction on the cup fitted to the cetaceans, bringing them back to the surface to be retrieved. Similar ideas are used to explore oceanic mysteries, keeping in mind conservation and protection of marine ecosystems.

The deep oceans are humankind's last frontier, and their exploration helps ensure that ocean resources are managed in a sustainable way for the future generations. According to the UN Geological Survey, the seabed contains mineral deposits of copper, zinc, nickel, gold, silver, and phosphorus, found on volcanic and other rocks and as nodules on abyssal plain sediments that are typically about 1-4 inches in diameter. The ocean is where massive quantities of fossil fuels have been discovered, a blessing and a bane at the same time, tipping the geopolitical compass.

India at sea

In global ocean exploration, India finds itself in a unique position, with a 7,517 km-long coastline, which is home to 1,382 islands and nine coastal states. With this, the nation's Blue Economy is a primary growth driver presenting opportunities to build a foundation for aquaculture, blue commerce, and tourism. The UN International SeaBed Authority has also allotted India 75,000 sq km in the Central Indian Ocean Basin for the exploitation of polymetallic nodules (PMN). By just utilising 10% of the PMN reserve available in the area, the country can meet its energy requirements for the next 100 years.

Accordingly, India plans to launch its own deep-sea expeditions through the Deep Ocean Mission ('Samudrayaan' programme), focusing on the country's exclusive economic zones and continental shelf. Samudrayaan will involve various crewed and uncrewed submersibles exploring the sea bed, with a primary aim to search for and extract PMNs, which are composed of manganese, nickel, cobalt, copper and iron hydroxide, used in the manufacture of electronics, batteries and solar panels. According to reports, the mission would see the use of MATSYA 6000, an indigenously developed self-propelled manned submersible that can carry three persons and scientific equipment for deep-ocean exploration to a depth of 6,000 m.

It is all about searching for the unusual and unexpected – documenting biological, chemical, physical, geological, and archaeological aspects of the oceans, and finding solutions to Earth's problems. Over the years, private enthusiasts and women researchers have scanned the ocean floor. Jacques-Yves Cousteau, Victor Vescovo, James Cameron, Cindy Lee Van Dover, and Katy Payne brought the moana to life for the modern generation. From whales to the Titanic wreck, the depth of study is bottomless. Unlocking the mysteries of ocean ecosystems can reveal new sources for therapies and vaccines, food, energy, and more, as well as help us better understand and respond to natural calamities and climate change. It's where life began, and perhaps can be sustained.

"The sea is everything. It covers seven tenths of the terrestrial globe. Its breath is pure and healthy. It is an immense desert, where man is never lonely, for he feels life stirring on all sides. The sea is only the embodiment of a supernatural and wonderful existence. It is nothing but love and emotion; it is the Living Infinite," writes Jules Verne in Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea.

SPATIAL OBSTRUCTION

WHEN SCIENCE INTERFERES WITH SCIENCE ITSELF

Science overdone can disrupt science itself. This is becoming a matter of concern. It is happening in the field of astronomy, wherein launching too many low-earth orbit (LEO) satellites is feared to disrupt night sky observations, even interrupting radio astronomy. Now, astronomers from International Astronomical Union (IAU) Centre for the Protection of the Dark and Quiet Sky from Satellite Constellation Interference (CPS) and Imperial College London have assessed the impact of the prototype BlueWalker-3 satellite on ground-based astronomical observations, in a study published in Nature Communications. AST SpaceMobilehad launched BlueWalker-3 into LEO on September 10, 2022. It was planned as a prototype for a constellation of over a 100 similar satellites to aid mobile communications. Within weeks after its launch, it was found to be among the brightest objects in the night sky. Data over 130 days showed an abrupt increase in brightness, which coincided with the complete unfolding of the antenna array. At 64 square meters, it is the largest commercial antenna system ever deployed in LEO. It was found that radio frequencies transmitted by BlueWalker-3 were close to the frequency bands for radio astronomy, compromising the existing observatory protection from radio interference — which, in turn, compromised ground-based observations of the night sky. Researchers are now forced to keep track of satellite positions to avoid interference with night sky observations. But a bigger challenge is mitigating the satellite brightness. To do that, they have to mask it to enable observation of the night sky beyond the satellites, but doing that is a risk of losing astronomical data from that portion of the sky. Ground-based night sky observers are now finding ways to get around the problem that is set to loom as the planned constellation is likely to unfold in LEO in the coming decade.

RECLAMATION WONDER

THE MAGIC OF RE-CULTIVATING ABANDONED CROPLANDS

A study led by the National University of Singapore's Centre for Nature-based Climate Solutions under the Faculty of Science, has found that reusing abandoned croplands could optimize food production at a time when world population is rapidly growing and the demand for food is correspondingly rising. The study, published in the scientific journal Nature Communications, highlights that while agricultural lands are expanding at the cost of natural habitats such as tropical forests, croplands are being abandoned due to factors such as land degradation, institutional and socioeconomic changes, disasters, armed conflict, and urbanization. Globally, the rate of abandonment is about 3.6 million hectares a year — 50 times the size of Singapore. Besides, between 1992 and 2020, abandoned croplands covered 101 million hectares globally. The study, based on findings, suggests better management of abandoned croplands, seen as nature-based solutions through re-cultivation or reforestation. The researchers found that if they were re-cultivated for food production, there could be less pressure to clear forests to open new croplands. In turn, it could contribute to the protection of existing forests.Besides, the process of re-cultivation could also help mitigate climate change by absorbing more carbon dioxide from the atmosphere. The researchers found that at least 83 million hectares of globally abandoned cropland were suitable for reforestation, which throws up the potential of annually taking in 1,066 million tonnes of carbon dioxide, which is equivalent to the annual emission of Japan alone. The finding is of much value to India, in re-cultivating land that was once considered fertile and now ignored due to aridity in dry regions. A whole slew of irrigation techniques can be applied to turn around such land to enhance food production. This initiative needs to be taken up globally on a war-footing to feed millions more in future.

BEHIND THE SCIENCE

EUCLID OF ALEXANDRIA

Of Axioms & Theorems

HRITHIK KIRAN BAGADE

GEOMETRY, a fundamental discipline of mathematical thought, owes a great deal of nurturing to Graeco-Roman mathematician and philosopher, Euclid. The contributions of Euclid, or Eucleides (in Greek), during the 4th century BCE, shaped geometry, which many subsequent mathematicians perfected over the next two millennia. Like many ancient academics of his time, very little is known about Euclid's early life, except that he flourished during 300 BCE (Alexandrian Era) in Alexandria, Ptolemaic Egypt. For this reason, he's more specifically addressed as "Euclid of Alexandria", so as to be distinguished from Euclid of Megara, a contemporary of Plato. Greek philosopher Proclus has summarised that Euclid taught at Alexandria during the reign of Ptolemy I Soter (323-285 BCE). Today, Euclid is best known for his thirteen-book magnum opus, the Elements ('Stoicheia' in Greek). Euclid's Elements is a compendium of definitions, postulates, theorems, axioms, and constructions and also contains mathematical proofs of propositions. Its books (1-13) cover plane and solid Euclidean geometry, elementary number theory, and incommensurable lines. Many forms of mathematics are named after Euclid -- the Father of Geometry -- who is is believed to have died in 270 BC in Alexandria.

HOW IT WORKS

SPACE AND TIME IS FOREVER

HRITHIK KIRAN BAGADE

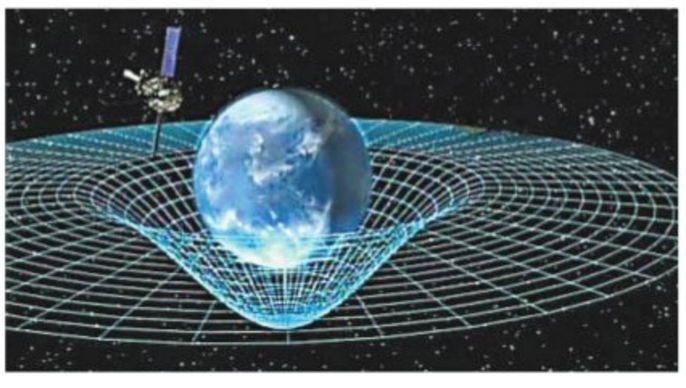
THE universe is, was, and will ever be! Whatever we know is within this universe, which our planet inhabits in some miniscule end of its vast emptiness! Its existence is eternal, and its scale incomprehensibly gargantuan. To understand the universe better, one must look at the concept of 'spacetime'. This idea, which was first propounded by Albert Einstein, has fascinated theoretical physicists for decades.

In Newtonian physics, space and time had independent identities. In 1906, when Einstein propounded the General Theory of Relativity, the precedent was set to talk about spacetime as a commonality. The relationship between space and time, and how they are the same, influencing and complementing each other, is what is explained by the 'Spacetime Continuum'. The spacetime continuum is a fundamental concept in physics and mathematics that describes the relationship between space and time. It is a 4-dimensional mathematical model that views the universe as a single entity, where space and time are not separate physical constructs, but are intertwined and inseparable.

"The views of space and time which I wish to lay before you have sprung from the soil of experimental physics, and therein lies their strength. They are radical. Henceforth, space by itself, and time by itself, are doomed to fade away into mere shadows, and only a kind of union of the two will preserve an independent reality," said German mathematician Hermann Minkowski. This new reality was that space and time ought to be combined into the new entity -- spacetime, because the equations of relativity show that both space and time coordinates of any event must get mixed together, to accurately describe what we see.



Because space is composed of 3 dimensions, and time is 1-dimensional, spacetime must, therefore, be a 4-dimensional object. It is a 'continuum' since there are no missing points in space or instants in time, and both can be subdivided without any apparent limit in size or duration. Hence, science considers our world to be embedded in this 4-dimensional spacetime continuum, and all events, places, moments in history, actions and so on are described in terms of their location in spacetime

Spacetime does not evolve, it simply exists. To put it in perspective, when we study a particular object from the standpoint of its spacetime representation, each particle is situated along its world-line, which stretches from the past to the future showing its spatial location at every instant in time. The object may shift space at any time, but its presence on this line is timeless. It simply exists.

This world-line is a complete object, which may be sliced up so one can see where a particle is located in space at a particular instant. Once the complete world-line of the particle is determined from the forces acting on it, its complete history is revealed. This world-line does not change with time, and is eternal. Similarly, in General Relativity, when one solves equations for the shape of spacetime, this shape does not change in time, but exists as a complete timeless object. One can slice it here and there to see what the geometry of space looks like at a particular instant. Examining consecutive slices in time will also let one see if the universe is expanding or not.

KNOW YOUR CITY

Arun Prasad, city-based history researcher, unravels interesting facts about Bengaluru in this weekly quiz series. So it's time for you to find out how familiar you are with the city, beyond its heritage buildings, IT parks and the pub culture.

THE QUIZ WILL BE PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY

Send answers to bengalurucityexpress@gmail.com with the subject line 'Know Your City Quiz'

Correct answers and names of first three respondents with right answers will be featured in CE.

1. Bengaluru got its moniker 'Garden City' not just from Lalbagh and Cubbon Park alone but from the numerous parks that dotted the city and the gardens within the compound walls of large bungalows, the tree-lined avenues, the circle gardens, etc. Name the grand old heritage bungalow in the city owned by the Wodeyars of Mysore which also had a vast frontal garden manicured by the Superintendent of Lalbagh gardens.

2. Bengaluru was once a 'twin city' with the Pete (old city belonging to the princely state of Mysore) and the Cantonment (governed directly by the British) before being merged into a single city under a common corporation. Which year were the twin cities merged to form 'Bangalore City Corporation'. 1949 or 1956?

3. 'Lake City' would have been another sobriquet of Bengaluru if all the 260-odd lakes survived in the city. Most of them have vanished in the last few decades due to rapid and unbridled urbanisation with just a few remaining. Name the historic lake erected by Kempegowda in the 16th century which was once the water lifeline for the city which was transformed into city's central bus terminus (Majestic Bus Station).

Ahead of Bengaluru FC's first home game of the 2023-24 Indian Super League, goalkeeper-vice captain Gurpreet Singh Sandhu and forward Sivasakthi Narayanan share the pressure and excitement of playing in front of an adoring home crowd

HOPES ON HOME TURF

DESE GOWDA

IT'S that time of the year again, when the football fever engulfs the entire nation, with fans cheering on their favourite clubs to battle it out for ultimate glory. After a disappointing start to the 2023-24 season of the Indian Super League, home favourites Bengaluru FC (BFC) are hoping the support of adoring fans at Sree Kanteerava Stadium will help them get some points on the table at their match against East Bengal FC (EBFC) this evening.

"In terms of results, we haven't had a good start to the season so far. But I think they were two difficult fixtures, away from home. And it wasn't something that we as a team were able to handle well. Hopefully, things change in the next game," says Gurpreet Singh Sandhu, the star goalkeeper and vice captain of BFC. He further adds, "We are optimistic, and excited to play at home in front of our fans. The atmosphere and feeling you get at home is something that you can't get during an away fixture. We just need to make sure that we enjoy ourselves and give something back to the fans coming to the stadium to support us."

After an encouraging turn of form last season, the Blues finished as Runners-up in the ISL, the Super Cup and went on to take their first title at the Durand Cup. But their plans to carry on that momentum to this season hasn't worked out. "In terms of the whole team, everyone is missing our captain Sunil Chhetri. While we've done well to adapt to the circumstances, we've also had Halicharan [Narzary] not being available for the first two games," says Sandhu, adding "We've had other avenues without Sunil bhai's presence. Even during the previous season, he had to miss out on a few games. So it's not like we are not used to it. But with him coming back, it gives us another option and hopefully, with his experience, we'll be in a much stronger position."

Meanwhile, emerging talent Sivasakthi Narayanan, whose impressive form last year helped turn around the team's fortunes during the later stages of the season, hopes to regain that form. "I was happy to feature in the first two games, but I wasn't able to score a goal or provide an assist. Looking forward to our first game at home, I hope I can play my part and I'm certain that we are in good shape for it and will walk away with the result we want," says Narayanan, who hails from Karaikudi. He further adds, "After I signed with Bengaluru FC I feel as though I am representing my home because of the support I have received from the fans and the club as well. The fans are something special."

Often touted as a talent capable of national and international glory, Narayanan is also compared to Sunil Chhetri favourably. But Captain Sandhu stresses that the comparison only serves to put unwanted pressure on Narayanan. "Comparing Shiva Shakti to anyone else is putting pressure on a young talent. He's a different player and has different skill sets from what Sunil Bhai has. What Chhetri bhai has done for the club and the country is a gargantuan job to replicate. So it's not fair to put someone in that spot," he says, adding, "It's important for me to provide a platform for Shivsakthi to do his own thing, rather than expecting him to fill any void in the team."

Meanwhile, Sandhu is full of praise for BFC's 'proud fans', whom he credits for introducing football culture to the country. "We have the best fans in the city. Very proud and extremely innovative. I think fans of BFC were some of the first to bring that culture of English and European football over here and show everyone how it's done. I've never seen fans show their disappointment at the team, they've always been with us, encouraged us," he concludes.

Filmmaker Gomtesh Upadhye, on his first web series – the recently released Kumari Srimathi and the flawed character played by Nithya Menen

'What you see is more of a creative experiment'

MAONIKA MONALISA

WITH a little bit of sweetness and cynicism, Kumari Srimathi on Amazon Prime Video, starring Nithya Menen, has managed to win hearts over the weekend. City-based filmmaker Gomtesh Upadhye, who directed the show, is quite happy with the response that the show has been getting, especially since the show took over three years to make. "There's a huge sense of relief more than anything else," says Upadhye, with a laugh. "I have been waiting to put it out for that reason and I'm also happy to see the responses that it is getting not just from the Telugu audience but from others too."

The seven-episode web series revolves around a 30-year-old unmarried woman, Kumari Srimathi, who decides to open a bar in her village to deal with a financial problem. Upadhye reveals that the character and her situation were the result of a collective effort by a lot of writers. "The root of it comes from this Telugu writer, Balabhadra Patra Ramani, who is the one who had this idea of a girl in a village who is unmarried. I'm sure she had her own life experiences to include in that. On top of that, we got a lot of other writers to come in. Another writer, Malik Ram, who is also a director, put forth the idea of opening a bar. A bunch of writers sat together and wrote the structure, which of course, went through a lot of evolution," says the filmmaker.

Though the story shows a 'never-say-die' attitude simply, Upadhye didn't want it to be preachy. "We also didn't want it to be one woman's fight against everybody. We ultimately decided to see how it shapes up. So what you see is more of a creative experiment, rather than what the audience prefers or the right way to do something," says Upadhye, adding that they didn't ever want to take a moral stand.

The lace of humour in the story surely helped with that. "For example, the protagonist is from a small place where people are constantly asking her to get married. So when she puts up a fight with her uncle, we didn't want to villainise the character since he is not a bad person," he explains.

As a filmmaker and a viewer, he liked the flawed character. "She has temper issues and is not so heroic in solving her problems. Whenever required, she asks for help," he says, adding that Menen was a perfect choice for the role. He adds, "Nithya is a thorough professional. Since she is also from Bengaluru, we bonded over that commonality. It was very comfortable, we had a good time working on this and I didn't have to do anything in terms of changing her performance or anything else," he says.

REVA Promotes Green Intiative Through Grow Bag Cultivation

IN a bid to encourage green life sustainable agriculture and foster a culture of self-reliance in food security, REVA University recently launched a pioneering educative initiative in the fields of agriculture, horticulture, and environmental conservation. REVA Krushi Tech Project (RKTP), an embodied vision of the Chancellor Dr. P Shyama Raju is portrayed as the promotion of education with entrepreneurship and ecological sustenance.

At an event held at REVA University as part of Gandhi Jayanti celebrations, the Chancellor officially launched the vertical modular agritecture and Grow Bag planting on the campus. Launching the modular vertical agritecture near REVA Ground, Dr. P. Shyama Raju said, "As part of REVA Krushi project the theme of Vidya, Vaidya & Vyavasaya will be propagated. The vertical modular agritecture is a wall-mounted structure in a soil-less medium and we plan to use recycled resources."

The event also saw the launch of the grow bag plantation in the campus, where the Chancellor joined hundreds of students in planting the plants in grow bags. "Around 300 grow bags were planted today. I believe this is just the beginning. We, as a Social Impact University, want more students to join this noble cause and contribute to society," he said.

Under the RKTP, the green life initiative with the grow bag and vertical gardening plans offers innovative solutions for cultivating vegetables and herbs within limited spaces and paving the way for a greener and healthier environment.

Students and community members will be exposed to constant learning and training about grow bags and vertical gardening techniques. These educational programmes will provide valuable insights into sustainable agriculture and empower individuals to create their own green spaces and create a sustainable food-secured future for all. United Nations SDGs like zero hunger, poverty reduction, climate change, and quality education are embedded in this initiative.

Grow bag vegetable cultivation approach is designed to provide an ideal environment for plant growth, and it offers several benefits like space efficiency, water conservation, and portability. Vertical gardening or Vertical Agritecture takes advantage of vertical spaces, transforming walls, fences, and even indoor areas into lush green gardens. It is a blend of orientation (vertical) and agriculture with elements of architecture. This method offers several advantages like maximised space utilisation, enhanced aesthetics, improved air quality, and biodiversity.

The technological interventions planned in these green life activities include soil-less culture, micro-irrigation, hybrid plant varieties, recycling of natural resources, and integrated pest, disease, and nutrient application.

The grow bags of about 300 seedlings of potatoes, tomato, capsicum, chillies, and brinjal are planted by the students and will be individually allotted for their peer learning and nurturing.

REVA University is leading by example with its on-campus demonstration gardens, showcasing a variety of vegetables and plants grown using these innovative methods. By doing so, REVA is becoming a part of the University's commitment to sustainability and environmental conservation.

'Women can have an inner world, some men find it difficult to accept'

Author Vivek Shanbhag on his new novel Sakina's Kiss ahead of a discussion on the book in Bengaluru today

PARAMITA GHOSH

A husband and wife united and separated by self-help books, secrets and biases, and a daughter. An uncle swindled, family rebels, local politics, and deeper ideologies that come to the fore that make men and women behave the way they do in certain circumstances—all of this makes Vivek Shanbhag's new novel, Sakina's Kiss, an engrossing read about family life in the backdrop of a changing India's social and political landscape.

Sakina's Kiss (Penguin) is Shanbhag's second book, which author Srinath Perur has translated, after Ghachar Ghochar. "Like all good fiction writers, he is often saying a lot without actually saying it. Making sure this comes through in translation is both challenging and fun," says Perur. "To me, Vivek is brilliant at showing us what goes on inside our heads and how it is related to the larger currents of the outside world. He has a deeply perceptive eye for life around him."

The novel was originally published in Kannada in 2021 as Sakinala Muttu. Shanbhag and Perur will be discussing Sakina's Kiss today in Bengaluru. Excerpts:

There are many strong characters in the book, some in the same house as Venkat, the narrator. Both his wife and daughter seem put off by him. Through Venkat's observations, what did you want to reveal about him and others?

What the writer wants to convey decides the tone, which in turn, chooses the narrative of a novel. The tone is so important because it decides what to show and more importantly what not to show. Spaces and voids are created in a work so that readers establish relationships with the story by filling these spaces from their own experiences or imagination. This is how a work becomes personal to the reader.

When a couple is in love or newly married as in this novel, they see each other through a magnifying glass. Unintended gestures can look like eternal promises. Even a small patch of 'common ground' is seen as a vast green pasture. However, what is usually ignored are the seeds of a power struggle that are sown right at the start.

Would you say that your book is full of portents about middle-class certainties in cities?

The middle class has benefited the most from globalisation. Along with it came opportunities for women in the job market which has resulted in them finding their own world outside the house. In many ways this has challenged existing norms of authority and hierarchy in families. This is difficult to digest for a society fed on masculinity and patriarchy. Many have resorted to the narrative of protecting "our culture" in order to retain the old order.

Such people refuse to accept the fact that women can have an inner world of their own. And when they do accept it, they demand that this world be fully revealed to them. The crisis is also born out of an arrogance that believes everything can be understood in this age of technological advancement.

Is the most pressure that middle class families face today from their own children? The novel almost seems to be a picture of the middle class at war with itself or coming apart.

In the last three decades, the middle class has seen changes and upward mobility like never before. This shift may not be big in absolute terms, but it is huge relatively. The fear of their children not making such progress unnerves the middle class. While they enjoy the benefits of open markets and a global economy, they haven't shed the protectiveness associated with the old economy. What constituted the safety net is no more there and this causes great anxiety.

As an author, how closely do you guide the translation process?

The process of translation is more of partnership or collaboration than guiding. It is a process of continuous give and take. Srinath with his sharp literary sensibilities challenges me to unravel the connections underneath the text. It enables me to understand my own craft better. A good translation must carry the unsaid in a work from one language to the other. It must not end up translating just the meaning of sentences.

Does ghostwriting diminish a book's authenticity?

FLYLEAF
VR FEROSE

(The author is a technologist based in Silicon Valley who is gently mad about books)

JOHN F Kennedy is the only man in history to have won a Pulitzer Prize for a book that was ghostwritten for him! His book Profiles in Courage (a study of heroic US senators) was published on January 1, 1956, to lavish praise. It became a bestseller and in 1957 was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for biography. It established Kennedy, till then considered promising but lacking in gravitas, as one of the Democratic party's leading lights, setting the stage for his presidential nomination in 1960.

Kennedy made no secret of his chief assistant on the project and speechwriter Ted Sorensen's involvement in Profiles in Courage, crediting him in the preface as "my research associate". But he insisted that he was the book's author and bristled even at teasing suggestions to the contrary. Sorensen and other Kennedy loyalists backed him up then and have done so since.

Of the recent books, Prince Harry's memoir Spare was ghostwritten by Pulitzer Prize winner JR Moehringer, author of The Tender Bar (2005). His ghost-writing credo echoes William Blake's quote, "Opposition is true friendship" – you need to keep questioning and pushing back, else you become a glorified stenographer. Spare has gone on to enter the Guinness Book as the fastest-selling non-fiction book.

After retired tennis star Andre Agassi read The Tender Bar, he asked Moehringer to collaborate with him on his own memoir. The resulting book, Open: An Autobiography, was published in 2009. Other ghostwritten celebrity memoirs include Malala Yousafzai's I Am Malala by Christiana Lamb, Sheryl Sandberg's Lean In by Nell Scovell and Hillary Clinton's It Takes a Village by Barbara Feinman Todd. When Boria Majumdar, who wrote Sachin Tendulkar's biography Playing it My Way, was asked about the process of writing the book, he said that the book was Sachin's book in his own language, and he was just the medium of expression. Most celebrities use ghostwriters as they don't have the time or the necessary expertise to write it themselves.

So, what exactly is ghostwriting and is it even ethical? Ghostwriting is the practice of writing content for other people, who will then post it as if it was their own. It's a common practice in many industries, and it can be an excellent way to get high-quality content without having to write the content yourself. In the digital world, ghostwriting has gone beyond books to blogs, LinkedIn posts, white papers, podcasts, scripts etc. I'm all for giving the ghostwriter some explicit acknowledgement on the book jacket or the title page and certainly in the acknowledgments section.

When it comes to the question of whether ghostwriting is ethical, it largely depends on the context. I for one believe that if someone else has written it, they should be duly credited. My friend who is writing her memoir was upfront about the fact that it was being ghostwritten and that increased my respect for her and did not diminish my desire to read it.

Sometimes a person simply doesn't have the talent to bring their powerful story to life, and that's when a ghostwriter might be useful. Many people argue that ghostwriting is an outsourced service, and it does not matter who wrote the book as long as it is well written. The purists however would say that literary ghostwriting is fraudulent!

I loved Michelle Obama's Becoming. But recently, I got to know it might have been ghostwritten. Does that change anything? What if Gandhi's autobiography had been ghostwritten? Wouldn't that diminish its authenticity? I am not sure.

This is what Moehringer said in a recent New Yorker article, "Ghostwriting is an art and ghostwriters are providing a vital public service, helping to shore up the publishing industry, since most of the titles on this week's best-seller list were written by someone besides the named author."

Bigg Boss is more than just a side project; it's my second home: Sudeep

CE FEATURES

KICHCHA Sudeep, currently occupied with the shooting of his multilingual film, Max, is all set to make his comeback as the host of the 10th season of Bigg Boss Kannada and this is a significant milestone in his television career. This season, beginning on October 8, brings a captivating theme - 'Happy Bigg Boss' into the spotlight. Expressing his thoughts on this milestone, Sudeep shared, "I began my journey with Bigg Boss Kannada in Season 1, and now, it's been a fantastic decade. This show is more than just a side project; it's my second home! Meeting new personalities and experiencing the diverse characters they bring to the show is a true joy. With the grandest Bigg Boss house ever, a unique theme, and exciting surprises in store, this season promises to be my most engaging entertainment endeavour yet."

The new season of Bigg Boss Kannada welcomes 16 diverse contestants from various backgrounds. Adding an intriguing twist to the season is the inclusion of Charlie, the adorable dog who gained fame in Rakshit Shetty's film 777 Charlie, directed by Kiran Raj. The film won a National Award. Charlie is expected to steal the spotlight as a contestant in the Bigg Boss house, with all necessary permissions obtained from the Animal Board for the pet's participation.

With a record-breaking 73 cameras capturing every move, the new Bigg Boss house, located on the outskirts of the city, claims the title of the largest house across all language formats.

> The multilingual actor will be hosting the 10th season of Bigg Boss Kannada

Prashanth Nayak, Business Head of Colors Kannada, highlighted the significance of this season, stating, "This season marks major milestones. Firstly, it's our 10th anniversary so we have infused celebratory vibes into every aspect of the show. Secondly, we're introducing a theme for the first time, adding a new dimension to the contestants' experience.

Addressing concerns about the show being scripted, Sudeep said, "The show is unscripted, and my reactions are authentic, reflecting the contestants and situations. If it were scripted, many aspects, including weekly eliminations and the winner, could be manipulated. Just like the viewers, I too am completely unaware of who the contestants are, who will get eliminated, and who will win."

Regarding contestants facing criticism on social media for their eccentric behaviour, Sudeep remarked "While some may question and troll certain contestants, it's essential to remember that it's not the right way to react. Under the law, individuals convicted of a crime are released after serving a sentence. Just because a contestant faced trolling for their actions, we should not treat them inhumanely."

Sudeep also shared insights into his fitness routine and appearance, revealing that he consumes only two meals a day, snacks on fruits in between, and diligently dedicates two hours to daily workouts.

CHIRANJEEVI SARJA'S FINAL FILM RAJAMARTANDA SET TO RELEASE

Director K Ramnarayan, discusses about this upcoming commercial entertainer, and when he mentioned how Chiru was inspired by his brother, Dhruva Sarja's film, and expressed his desire to have impressive dialogues in his film

A SHARADHAA

RAJAMARTANDA, featuring the late Chiranjeevi Sarja, is finally scheduled for release on October 6, coinciding with his brother Dhruva Sarja's birthday. The latter even plans to celebrate his special day by watching the film with his fans on the first day, first show.

As the makers are gearing up for the film to hit the theatres this Friday, director K Ramnarayan acknowledges the challenge of releasing a film without the actor's presence, saying, "While we reconnect with the actor through this film, people are fondly remembering Chiranjeevi Sarja."

In fact, the entire family, including Chiru's wife Meghana Raj Sarja and brother Dhruva Sarja, who dubbed for him, had words to share about Chiru. Chiru's father-in-law, Sundar Raj, emphasised that Rajamartanda should be seen as a tribute to Chiru, not his last film. He encouraged everyone to come together to watch the film so that Chiru's son, Raayan, can proudly say that his father's last film was a blockbuster.

The film also received support from Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, and politicians like DK Shivakumar and HD Kumaraswamy, who conveyed their wishes. "Challenging Star Darshan, only addressed Chiru as 'partner' due to their strong bond. Moreover, Darshan and producer Shivakumar's childhood friendship played a role in his involvement in the project," says the director.

Ramnarayan recalls how the project with Chiranjeevi Sarja began in late 2016, with the actor showing interest a year later. "Chiru, who was inspired by his brother's Dhruva Sarja's films like Addhuri, Bharjari, Bahaddur, expressed his desire for impactful dialogues in Rajamartanda, which I had in mind, while penning the dialogues. I incorporated old Kannada dialects to enhance the script and character, which Chiranjeevi practised extensively and had delivered 2 page dialogues with a free flow. However Chiru's demise and fate led Dhruva Sarja to deliver these dialogues, ultimately adding value to the film," says Ramnarayan, who mentioned that he has managed to retain Chiranjeevi's original voice in one scene, which was recorded during the teaser dubbing, and mentioned, Chiranjeevi's son, Raayan, also makes a cameo appearance in the film.

Produced by Shivakumar under the Madeshwara Production banner, the film features Deepthi Sati as the female lead and Bhajarangi Loki as the antagonist. The cast includes Meghasri, Triveni, Vineethkumar, Chikkanna, Devaraj, Sumitra, Shankar Aswath, Sangeetha, Shivaram, and Umesh Karanji in pivotal roles. Rajamartanda has music by Arjun Janya and background score by Dharma Vish, with cinematography by Jabez K Ganesh.

My film centres around the significance of love in small towns: Mahesh Ammallidoddy

CE FEATURES

Mahesha C Ammallidoddy, who made his debut with the horror film, O, has now shifted to a romantic genre with his second film, titled Love. When asked how a film centred around romance can be unique, the director shares an interesting perspective. He states, "Unlike metropolitan cities, where romance has become more cosmopolitan, it remains a special feeling for people in small towns and rural areas. My film is set in one such coastal belt."

Love explores the theme of romance between individuals from two different religions. However, he emphasised that this isn't the typical narrative involving violence or elopement seen in our usual love stories. "This film is something different from all of that," he says.

"Love, according to Mahesha, is inspired by real events and was shot in various locations, including Udupi, Kota, Kundapur, Byndoor, Bagalkot, and Bangalore" He also highlighted that the film features mostly emerging talents, with actors like Prajay Jayaram, Vrushi Patil, and the film features actors such as Divakar, Prabhakar Kundar, Umesh Shreekanth Teli, Radhika Bhat, Tillak, Harish Shetty, and others in pivotal roles.

Love is scheduled for release on October 6and is distributed by BK Gangadhar. Shivaprasad, who has previously worked on Kambli Hula, scores the background score, with songs composed by Sai Shree Kiran and Roshith Vijayan. Siddharth HR has handled the cinematography for the film.
